

PROHIBITION DEPARTMENT PLANS FOREIGN BUREAU TO PREVENT RUM SMUGGLING INTO UNITED STATES

Head of Mexican Catholic Church Faces Trial

AGED ARCHBISHOP SAYS HE IS READY FOR MARTYRDOM

Rev. Mora y del Rio Asailed by Col. Tejeda as Result of Interview Given U. S. Paper.

LONG PRISON TERM PENALTY IN CASE

Catholics Say That President Calles' Statements Show He Fears Economic and Social Boycott.

BY JIM CORNIN.

Mexico City, August 12.—Archbishop Mora y del Rio deliberately broke the law prohibiting a priest from censuring the government, not only once but in practically all the statements given in an interview to the New York World, and will have to answer before the authorities, according to announcement here today by Colonel Tejeda, minister of the interior.

In a statement of some length, Colonel Tejeda analyzes the archbishop's utterances as assertions of such subversive character as to demand prosecution. The minister has turned the statements over to the court for investigation, formally charging Archbishop Mora y del Rio with knowingly and willfully breaking the law. It is said the archbishop will have to appear in court to answer the charges made by the minister of the department of the interior.

Catholics Confident.

If he does, it will be the first time in history that the head of the Catholic church appeared in court to answer a civil or criminal charge. The Catholics pretend that they have no fear the archbishop will be cited in court. They believe that the threat against the archbishop is a political move to please the radicals.

Attempts to see the archbishop today were unavailing as he again has been taken ill and is suffering from laryngitis, accompanied by a high fever. The archbishop said, through a member of his staff:

"I am an old man and should I suffer martyrdom for the Catholic cause, I am willing that mine will be the glory."

Catholics are excited over the prospect of the arrest of their leader and influential persons are seeking information. To all the attorney general's office stated that the accusation of the archbishop has not reached there, although it is expected momentarily. The conviction of the archbishop on the charges laid against him by Colonel Tejeda carries a heavy fine and from 5 to 17 years imprisonment, according to the statement of a prominent government lawyer.

Able Leg: Talent Ready.

The Catholics are prepared to furnish the best legal talent to defend the archbishop should the arrest materialize.

A prominent leader today said:

"No government, however arbitrary, in this age of free speech is blundering enough to arraign even a priest, let alone the head of the church."

Two Men Arrested In 'Choir Mystery' On Murder Charge

SHEFFIELD MOVES TO AID AMERICAN JAILED IN MEXICO

U. S. Ambassador Reports He Has Interceded With Foreign Office in Behalf of J. H. Grande.

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—Two developments turned the attention of the state department toward Mexico today as Secretary Kellogg was preparing to leave for White Pine camp to talk over departmental problems with President Calles.

Ambassador Sheffield reported that he had interceded with the Mexican foreign office on behalf of another imprisoned American, J. H. Grande, of Los Angeles, who was arrested a week ago and held without hearing on an unspecified charge.

Sees Flaherty Today.

While officials were assessing the possible consequences of that incident, Mr. Kellogg made an appointment for tomorrow which will give the American government its first official contact with the religious controversy in Mexico. He arranged to see J. J. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, and receive from him a resolution adopted at the recent Philadelphia convention of the order, asking that the United States intervene to protect Catholic churches in their dispute with President Calles.

Doubtless both of these subjects, as well as the uncompleted negotiations with the Mexican City government over the new oil and land laws, will be discussed by Secretary Kellogg with his chief during the four or five days he will spend at the summer white house. He plans to leave Washington Saturday morning and remain at White Pine camp until Wednesday, when he is to speak at Plattsburg, N. Y. He probably will return to the camp on Thursday for further conference before he returns to the capital to meet Ambassador Sheffield, who is to reach Washington late next week.

Meantime, the department will seek further information about the imprisonment of Grande. The only charge against him, reported to Washington is that of violating the Mexican constitution.

Coolidge Refers Petition.

The secretary will receive the Knights of Columbus official tomorrow at the instance of the president, who had referred the petition for government intervention to the state department. Many other communications regarding the religious conflict have reached the department, but there has been no indication thus far that officials were preparing to take any action. They have regarded the controversy as a domestic issue to be settled by Mexico herself.

Nor is there any indication here of a stiffening of the government's attitude in the oil land controversy, despite indications that Ambassador Sheffield would like to see such a change. There are reasons to believe that the latest American note on the subject is no less friendly in tone than its predecessors.

BROWN DECLINES FIFTY-NINE ENTER CITY PRIMARIES TO FILL 25 POSTS

Talmadge Promises To "Stay on His Neck" Until End of Campaign on September 8.

DEBATE DECLARED TALMADGE VICTORY

Brown Said His Campaign Committee Advises Him Against Further Debates.

BY PAUL STEVENSON, Staff Correspondent.

Elberton, Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—Before a crowd that overflowed the Elberton county courthouse yard here today, Eugene Talmadge, of McRae, and J. J. Brown, of Elberton, rival candidates for commissioner of agriculture, held their third joint debate of the campaign, and after about three hours of wordsy battle Talmadge literally "ran his opponent off the stump," when at the conclusion Brown declared absolutely to meet Talmadge again in Atlanta or anywhere else in the state in further discussion.

Brown's refusal to meet Talmadge any more came as a dramatic climax to a day of tense political warfare. Brown said he had suggested at McRae, Talmadge's home town, in their first debate last week that he would meet Talmadge in Elberton, Brown's home town, and in Atlanta, but declared his campaign committee had advised him to make today's clash the last of the series. Talmadge told Brown he "would stay on his neck" the rest of the race.

Today's battle was in some respects a repetition of the debate at McRae, and was an unquestioned victory for Talmadge in so far as applause, cheers and support were concerned. He presented excellent order, and both the cheering and the cheering of the crowd gave him a great victory in the eyes of the people.

Stapleton Presides.

Judge Raymond Stapleton, of the city court of Elberton, presided, and although he was forced sometimes to call "hecklers" and others to order during the speeches of both candidates, he presented excellent order, and both the cheering and the cheering of the crowd gave him a great victory in the eyes of the people.

Five Candidates Seek Mayoralty and Like Number Want Recorder-ship of Second Division.

Registration List Closes August 23

All Citizens Urged To Register and Vote in Primary September 22.

When the curtain rung down at noon Thursday on entrances for city political posts 59 candidates had qualified for the 25 positions to be filled.

The stage was then ready for a series of drives by candidates and at council of friends of aspirants Thursday night plans presaging the most hotly contested primary held in the city in the past decade were formed.

Every opportunity to further the interests of candidates of their choice will be seized between now and the time the primary is held, September 22, according to several groups. Political lines are drawn tightly as those qualified map out programs for intensive drives in their own behalf.

Of the 25 posts to be filled by voters only three candidates will go in without opposition—Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, of the third ward; Councilman Frank H. Reynolds, of the eighth, and Mrs. Paul West, candidate for membership to the board of education from the eleventh to succeed Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, who failed to offer for reelection.

Five Seek Mayoralty.

The majority post and judgeship of the second division of the recorder's court are the most popular, if the list of entries for these positions is an indicator. Five entered the lists for each of these jobs.

So from now until midnight of September 22 Atlanta voters may expect to be tormented with the approaches of seekers of favoritism at the polls. Secret conclaves of groups of friends of prospective mayors, judges, etc., will be in order until the fatal date.

Coincided with the closing of entries, City Clerk Walter C. Taylor issued a statement urging all citizens to register at the earliest possible date. Registration books will close August 23, on account of the 22d falling on Sunday. All prospective voters must pay poll taxes and register to be eligible to vote in the city election.

'Candy Kid' Pays Penalty of Death For Killing Guard

Iron Nerve Unbroken, Wearing Smile of Derision, Killer and Bandit, Dies on Gallows.

WISHES "GOOD-BY" TO ALL WITNESSES

Comforts "Tiger Lil" on Last Visit—Reads Story of Adventure as Death Moment Nears.

BY FRANK DOLAN.

Baltimore, Md., August 13.—Shrouded in a flowing black gown that reached from his head to his heels, Richard Reese Whittemore, murderer, gunman and highway robber, was hanged this morning in Maryland state penitentiary.

The "Candy Kid," wearing a smile of derision, entered the chamber of death at 12:06 a. m. He was dropped to his doom two minutes later at 12:08.

Iron Nerve Unbroken.

The iron nerve that stood by him so well while he tore like a criminal cyclone through the jewel coffers of New York, netting in less than a year more than $1,000,000 in loot, did not desert this clear-eyed convict as he stepped on the trap.

He was led on the little balcony that acts as a gallows here by one guard, and two others immediately followed. He walked with a firm step as though he had been released to the square that marks the folding door.

The hangman paused after adjusting the noose and spoke, "Do you want to say anything before you go, Dick?" he asked.

Dick smiled, leaned forward and

LINCOLN ANDREWS OUTLINES PLANS FOR NEW BUREAU

Compacts Made With Canada, Mexico, Cuba and European Nations Will Be Enforced.

U. S. AGENTS MAY GO TO FOREIGN PORTS

Most of Work Abroad Will Be Done Through Consuls, Dry Director Believes.

New York, August 12.—(AP)—Immediate organization of a "bureau of foreign control" in the prohibition department, to direct the practical application of the prohibition agreements between this country and foreign nations was announced today by Brigadier General Lincoln C. Andrews.

It is even possible, he acknowledged, that the work of this new bureau may entail sending prohibition men to foreign ports.

General Andrews, who returned last night after reaching an agreement with English statesmen on the liquor-smuggling situation, spent this afternoon at the University club in conference with the United States Attorney Buchner and an assistant.

"My first work in Washington," he said, "will be to build up the machinery that will put into practical effect the compacts we now have with Canada, Mexico, Cuba and the European countries, and especially the agreement just consummated with England. I plan to establish a new, small bureau of foreign control which will have active supervision of this work."

Asked if this meant that he would have special agents abroad, he replied: "It means the United States will, if there are any. But I expect we can do most of the work through the American consuls."

Although he would not disclose details of the agreement with England, General Andrews was highly elated with the result of his trip.

Foreigners Cooperate.

"I believe we are now on the high road to effective enforcement," he said. "Foreign governments are working with us to eliminate smuggling and we are making good progress toward the absolute control of the international traffic in alcohol."

During his talk with newspapermen General Andrews was asked concerning the status of A. Bruce Bielaski, who is being held during the trial of members of the Bremer gang, that he was a special agent of Mr. Andrews here, receiving about $1,100 a month.

Bielaski Is Secret Agent.

"Mr. Bielaski is a secret agent," General Andrews said today. "That is why I am not telling you about him. He is not paid $1,100 a month, but he is paid for what he accomplishes and that might amount to $20,000 a year. He is paid out of the fund for the purchase of evidence which congress provided at my request."

General Andrews said that last year there was a $50,000 fund for the purchase of evidence.

GET YOUR BARGAIN WHILE THE GETTING IS GOOD

Two ladies were talking (yes, it was about dresses) and one was telling the other of a splendid bargain she had secured in a gown at one of the stores.

The other was immediately impressed with the idea of rushing right to that store next morning to see if she could also get a bargain.

But her friend said: "I'm afraid it's too late now. I saw the advertisement in The Constitution and went in that morning early, so I had my choice of the garments; but before I left the department was crowded with others who saw the same advertisement."

Every time you fail to read the advertisements in The Constitution you miss your chance at one or more splendid bargains. Of course there are many times that the bargains are in articles that do not interest you just then, but just as often the bargains are in articles that you want very much. Read the advertisements in The Constitution every morning, then you will miss none that interest you.

ADVERTISING IN THE CONSTITUTION PAYS THE ADVERTISER AND SAVES THE BUYER

City Can Use Bond Funds To Move Disposal Unit, City Attorney Declares

James L. Mayson Answers Query From Mayor Sims Regarding Stand on Park Project.

Although the city of Atlanta might not have authority to spend city funds to develop a park on the present site of the Peachtree creek disposal plant, the city attorney, James L. Mayson, declared today that the city could use bond funds to move the disposal unit and bond funds for sewerage purposes in the recent $5,000,000 bond election could be used for this purpose, according to a ruling Thursday of City Attorney James L. Mayson, in a letter to Mayor Walter A. Sims.

Mr. Mayson made this assertion in answer to an official communication from the mayor calling on the city's legal adviser to explain how the city has expended several hundred thousands of dollars in development of city-owned property which lies outside the city limits.

and in some instances outside the city, and yet, according to a ruling by the city attorney several days ago, could not spend city funds on development of the proposed disposal unit.

The city attorney's letter admits that some of the city's outlays in development seem to him to be illegal, but cited charter amendments to support most of the expenditures.

Cites Augusta Decision.

Mayor Sims Wednesday asked the city attorney to explain how the city could spend the city's funds in developing the disposal unit, the city dairy farm and prison.

In his reply Mr. Mayson pointed out that no legal difference exists between these projects, except that the dairy farm and prison is protected in a charter amendment of August 5, 1922, while the disposal unit is protected in a charter amendment of August 5, 1922, and for some reason failed to pass.

Mr. Mayson's letter cites a decision of the Georgia supreme court in the case of Langley vs. the City of Augusta (118 Georgia, page 594) in which it was held that a municipality could not purchase and hold real estate beyond its territorial limits or lawfully perform any act beyond such limits, unless the power to do so is expressly given by the legislature.

Does Not Take Sides.

"I did not raise this question," said the letter. "Council has done many things not within the charter and sometimes over my advice. However, I never take sides in any of these undertakings and try to hold myself in a position where the advice is at least honest and impartial."

"The sewer system outside the city is protected by charter amendment. The water system outside the city is likewise protected."

"The old waterworks, Lakewood, is protected by charter amendment."

"I think the sewer bonds would cover the cost of removing the septic tanks in the Peachtree section. This being so, I see no reason why the cause of complaint could not be easily and legally removed. In other words, there is no connection, as I see it, between the proposed park and the septic tanks."

"However, there are matters that address themselves more particularly to the general council."

Hard Luck Runs Rampant Today--Friday The 13th

BY LOY WARWICK.

Today is Friday 13. (As if you didn't know it just as well.) A story nothing else you can do about it. Friday 13 is supposed to be an unlucky day. That is to say, you stand a much better chance of running into a mess of trouble and hard luck on Friday 13 than any other day. Anything is liable to happen.

Several theories, including the theory of evolution, have been offered for the Constitution's big Friday 13 department. One was that a good while ago—two or three hundred years, maybe—Friday was known as hangman's day. It was to be the most popular day of the week for hanging persons.

And with No. 13 being an unlucky number, you can see how they put two and two together. Ever since they put two and two together, Friday 13 has been regarded as an extremely unlucky day.

Now if you want to go into the matter of why No. 13 is an unlucky number, that's different. There are several reasons, one being that it is an uneven number, but so is seven and eleven, and you know what that means.

There are certain persons who claim that Friday 13 is their lucky day, and that No. 13 is their lucky number. Maybe so. They ought to know. If they want to go around bragging that Friday 13 means absolutely nothing in their young lives, then let them go around bragging that Friday 13 means absolutely nothing in their young lives.

Any person with average intelligence will be careful today. Don't dart in front of speeding automobiles or walk the railing on the Whitehall street viaduct. Don't slip a policeman or try to tell anybody how long you were under the ether, or that your incision, "was the longest one the doctor had ever made."

There are a lot of things you shouldn't do on Friday 13, and you don't expect us to list them all out here for you.

All in the world this is supposed to do is take up that space reserved in every paper for a Friday 13 story, and to remind you that it is Friday 13, and that all day today crazy people are going to be reminding you of the same thing.

Until the calendar is changed and the number of days in a month reduced to 12 or under, we will continue to have Friday 13.

There won't be any more of them this year, which certainly is a big relief for the whole family.

Thank you.

PET COLLIE BITES BABIES AT PLAY ON HOME PORCH

George Alexander, Jr., four, of 100 Kontz avenue, and Elsie Crutchfield, six, of 104 Kontz avenue, were bitten by a pet collie Thursday afternoon as they played on the porch of the Alexander home.

Mrs. B. C. Lumpkin, an aunt of the Alexander boy, heard the screams of the children and summoned city policemen who killed the dog and carried its head to the state capital for examination for rabies.

The children were immediately given the Pasteur treatment.

Mr. A. M. Jones, for a number of years connected with the organization staging "Home Beautiful" exhibits in various localities, is now located with Stephen Philibosian, Inc., and providing great assistance to customers of this store interested in beautifying their homes. Mr. Jones has sold some large orders to prominent Atlantans recently and his exceptional ability and pleasing personality are winning many friends for this store.

In discussing his work in Atlanta, Mr. Jones said:

"It is a real pleasure to sell merchandise for Stephen Philibosian, Inc. When I talk quality merchandise and low prices to my friends and acquaintances, who come here seeking my advice on home furnishings, I know I am telling the truth."

"Mr. Philibosian has brought to Atlanta a store that is not only a credit to the city, but this big establishment offers real opportunity to the buying public."

"Buying and selling for cash is the secret of this business and anyone who doubts our low prices has only to come to this store and see for themselves."—(adv.)

FRIER RAPS ARTICLE IN NEGRO NEWSPAPER

Denial that he is a republican and declaration that a recent story to that effect in an Atlanta negro newspaper was printed "to injure him," was made Thursday by W. R. Frier, of Douglas, candidate for the public service commission. The statement by Mr. Frier follows:

"My attention has been called to a big spread article on the first page of a negro paper printed in Atlanta called 'The Atlanta Independent.' It is the leading story carried in this negro sheet. In big headlines it states: 'Judge W. R. Frier, a good republican, for member of public service commission,' and that if I failed to get the nomination I will run as an independent in the general election and that all republicans will vote for me."

"Malicious Slander."

"I brand this statement that I am a republican, or ever have been, as a willful and deliberate lie, inspired as an unfair effort to injure me in the democratic primary. I do not know who not this sheet to print such a deliberate falsehood, but I do know that it was a lie so far below the belt that no gentleman would stand sponsor for it. The only purpose of the article was to 'fly-blows' me under the idea that the editors of that paper were my friends."

"I was chairman of the Coffee county democratic executive committee for three terms, have served on the state democratic executive committee from the state-at-large, and have never voted any but a democratic ticket in my life. This slander is being used all over Georgia against me. I hereby notify Mr. Woodruff that unless this underground fight stops I will personally wage a hard political battle, but when a slanderous slur is put on a man it transcends the bounds of decency and fairness."

"I have never sought to play republican politics in any shape, form or fashion directly or indirectly. Any man who says that I ever have is guilty of uttering a falsehood knowingly. I would certainly most highly prize any man who says that I ever have, but my good name higher than anything. Anybody in Coffee county, where I live, will brand this vile misrepresentation as it deserves."

"I have this race won, and I do not propose to let Mr. Woodruff, or any of his friends, get any benefit from any groundless attack on me."

"The article in the negro paper was printed to injure me and not possibly from any decent or good motives, even by the negroes who run 'The Independent.'"

IVAN ALLEN TELLS PROGRESS OF DRIVE FOR GREATER CITY

Ivan Allen, prominent citizen and chairman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, told the regular Thursday luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Allen outlined the activities of the campaign that is spending $250,000 in bringing the valuable features of Atlanta to the attention of the nation at large.

"Atlanta's greatest asset," he said, "is its strategic geographical location. There is no doubt but what the southeast can be best served from Atlanta. With this in mind, the commission has gone after 1,300 concerns doing business on a national scale, who would probably be interested in establishing branch headquarters for their business in the southeast zone at the most efficient point. We have already secured more than 100 such concerns who have agreed to locate their southern branches in Atlanta."

"The commission realized from the outset that only the strictest truth in its advertising would result in enduring benefit to the city. And at all times nothing but the bare truth has been used. We have also made an effort to obtain quality in preference to quantity when approving a concern with a view to bringing it here."

FAIRBURN WOMAN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Mrs. S. N. Wingo, of Fairburn, Ga., was slightly injured early Thursday morning when the car she was driving collided with a truck of the Continental Oil company, said to have been driven by G. W. Adams, at the intersection of Foundry and Marietta streets, according to police reports.

Mrs. Wingo was not seriously hurt and refused to go to the hospital. She was taken home and placed under the care of a family physician. No case was made and Officer G. W. Linan was assigned to investigate the case.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

Important for Children and Grown-Ups Alike

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have energetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "hold" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain rice. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Another large ginger ale concern that has made a lot of "fuss" in Atlanta during the last 12 months has closed office and gone back home. RED ROCK is always here.

Connecting Link In Nickel Plate Merger Sought

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—A phase of the Nickel Plate merger was placed before the interstate commerce commission today in an application by the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railway for permission to build 63 miles of track from Valley Crossing to Gregg, Ohio.

The application requested modification of the commission's order of March 2, which disapproved the construction along with the plan for the Nickel Plate unification.

The application said it had an agreement with the Chesapeake and Ohio one of the roads involved in the proposed unification, under which the N. & O. as an extension of its line in the unification plan.

Should the unification be authorized, the Valley Crossing-Gregg line would provide a connecting link within the Chesapeake and Ohio system joining the Chesapeake and the Hocking railway, another of the proposed merger roads.

DIRECT OUTLET TO GREAT LAKES

Columbus, Ohio, August 12.—(AP)—Should the interstate commerce commission grant the application of the Nickel Plate railroad to construct 63 miles of track between Valley Crossing and Gregg, that system then would have direct outlet to the Great Lakes for its West Virginia and Kentucky coal. Coal now originating on the Chesapeake and Ohio road in West Virginia and Kentucky is carried as far as Gregg, where it is delivered to the Norfolk and Western for the haul to Valley Crossing, south of Columbus. At Valley Crossing coal trains then are delivered to the N. & W., to the Hocking Valley for Toledo, and to the Erie for Lake Erie.

Thus if the Hocking Valley and the Chesapeake and Ohio Northern are linked up by the new proposed road, the Nickel Plate system would have direct route from the coal fields to Toledo and Lake Erie. The Chesapeake and Ohio Northern terminates at Gregg.

HARDWARE BODY IN SOUTH AGREES TO CHANGE RULES

Richmond, Va., August 12.—(AP)—Representatives of the Southern Hardware Jobbers' association and Miller Hughes, special assistant to the attorney general, have agreed upon a consent order to settle anti-trust proceedings brought against the association in federal court here earlier this week. A consent order has been forwarded to Judge D. Lawrence Grogan for his approval, L. T. W. Marry, attorney for the association, said today.

Mr. Marry refused to comment on the agreement other than to announce that it was satisfactory to all parties concerned. It approved by Judge Grogan, the order will bring to an end the action against the 171 members of the association in 14 southern states.

While the contents of the agreement were not made public, it was generally understood that the order in some way limited the policy of the association. The fact that it was a consent decree was taken to mean that the policy was merely corrective and not severe.

FOG BLANKETS CITY

Thunderstorms and Even Temperatures Seen Today

Local thunderstorms are predicted for Atlanta and vicinity today by C. F. von Herrmann, local government meteorologist. There will be practically no change in the range of temperatures today. Mr. von Herrmann stated from those of Thursday. Temperatures Thursday ranged from 70 to 88.

Because of the extreme earth heat prior to the big rain Wednesday and lack of breeze Wednesday night, one of the heaviest fogs ever seen in this section descended on the city.

Hundreds of motorists were forced to cancel auto parties during the early night due to the dense fog, which made automobile travel dangerous.

MRS. W. L. BEASLEY TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. William L. Beasley, 53, of 439 South Boulevard who died at Grady hospital Wednesday afternoon a few minutes after she is said to have taken poison at her home, will be this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel of Greenberg & Bond.

The Rev. Eddie Small will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mrs. Beasley is said to have phoned her husband immediately after she took poison. Mrs. Beasley stated that his wife has been dependent for some time.

In addition to her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. D. Turner; four sons, Harry L. Howard, M. Wilbur F. and Hugh C. Beasley, all of Atlanta; two brothers, E. E. WOMEN'S CLUBS START DRIVE FOR SANITATION

A drive to institute more methodical and frequent removal of garbage has been begun by the health committee of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, it was announced Thursday by Dr. Elizabeth L. Broach, chairman, who issued a statement which set out that "flies swarm over unemptied garbage cans of the best kept homes of the city."

The drive of the women comes on the heels of approval by the finance committee of city council of a proposal of Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman of the sanitary committee of council, to place in service at the earliest possible moment eight additional garbage trucks.

City council Monday will be asked to approve the favorable recommendation of the finance and sanitary committees in order to expedite removal of refuse.

The sanitary department has been taxed to its utmost this season and additional facilities are needed immediately to cope with the great excess of garbage which has accumulated this season due to the unusual weather. "Mr. Saunders said. "We have done all we could to make systematic removals, but the department has been taxed beyond its ability to function. The eight additional trucks will receive the estimation to a large degree. We are behind the women in their efforts to protect the health of Atlantans, and we are making every effort toward making and keeping Atlanta the healthiest city in the entire country."

Dr. Broach's announcement to the women of Atlanta follows:

"To the women of Atlanta: We, the health committee of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, through the medium of our splendid daily papers, wish to reassure the home-makers that this committee of women is behind them solid for better service of our sanitary department in handling garbage."

"It is utterly useless for a city to spend great sums of money on improvements of waterworks, pasteurized milk, and for the citizens to worry over typhoid prevention, so long as the flies swarm over the unemptied garbage cans a week at the time the rear doors of some of the best kept homes in the city."

"We are placing no blame. We are stating facts as they recur often and we are asking for a long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together by the health loving people of Atlanta until this dangerous and disgusting neglect is corrected and removed."

"Let the Atlanta advertising committee take note, as we have a goal of nothing short of extermination for the fly and mosquito in Atlanta, the cleanest city in America. Time, now! We are asking that employees of the sanitary department be serviced on their regular rounds which they repeatedly fail to make for a week at the time."

Chairman of Monroe Board of Commissioners Is Victim of Stroke

Forsyth, Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—George A. Pennington, 67, chairman of the Monroe county board of commissioners, died early tonight at his home near Forsyth, following a stroke of paralysis a week ago.

He was married twice. First to Miss Alice Hutchinson, and from that union he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Burns, of Dixon, Mo., and Mrs. Edwin Ponder, of Forsyth, and three sons, John A. Pennington, of Forsyth; George Pennington, of Atlanta, and William Pennington, of Aniston, Ala. He is also survived by his second wife, who was Mrs. Belle Fletcher.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mr. Pennington was appointed to the office of commissioner several months ago, and so satisfactory were his services that he was unopposed for election in the coming primary.

Rhineland Files Appeal in Decision Refusing Annulment

New York, August 12.—(AP)—Wealthy young Kip Rhineland today had 1,455 pages of argument to bolster his appeal from the decision of a jury last December at White Plains that refused to annul his marriage to the daughter of a negro taxi driver.

It was learned that printing of his appeal had been completed at a cost of $5,000 and that it would be filed in the Brooklyn appellate court. The appeal is in two volumes and 16 copies of each were necessary for the appeal court record. The appeal consists of the trial record, including the famous but mostly unprintable love letters, one of which was 2,000 words long, that figured in the testimony.

The appeal will not be argued until after October 4 and the principals will not have to be present.

RING POLITICS TERMED BLOT ON STATE RULE

Announcement was made from Hardman headquarters in the Kimball house Thursday night by Gordon S. Chapman, publicity director, that Dr. L. G. Hardman will deliver an address at Waynesboro tonight at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Hardman spent Thursday in Jenkins county and addressed a large crowd at the courthouse at noon in Milledgeville. In addition to discussing his platform the speaker stressed the fact that Georgia's progress was being retarded by machine-ring politics which he said was a blot upon our state government. He directed attention to the fact that Georgia's progress was being retarded by machine-ring politics which he said was a blot upon our state government. He directed attention to the fact that Georgia's progress was being retarded by machine-ring politics which he said was a blot upon our state government.

In speaking of the prohibition question Dr. Hardman mentioned the fact that he introduced the first prohibition bill in the Georgia legislature in 1907, calling attention of his audience to the remarkable progress this and other states had made since the abolition of alcohol.

During the coming week Dr. Hardman will deliver campaign speeches in several counties in the state, the time and place to be announced Sunday.

WALKER ASKS OHIO TO RETURN NEGRO SENTENCED TO DIE

Governor Clifford Walker has requested of the governor of Ohio the extradition of Jim Miken, alias Jim McKim, negro, said to be in Toledo, and wanted in Floyd county, where he is under sentence of death for the murder of a negro girl.

Sheriff R. E. Wilson, of Floyd county, who will go to Ohio after Miken, said that Miken killed the negro girl in 1918, and was sentenced to be hanged on the October, 1919, term of court. He escaped before the sentence could be imposed.

"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING."

The only objection that has not been advanced against the removal of the Peachtree creek disposal plant, and the conversion into a beautiful public park of the 125 acres belonging to the city, is that the proposed development is beyond the city limits, and that if considered it should be in connection with the incorporation of the surrounding territory into the city limits.

This was not considered as adequate objection to the city's making large subscriptions to the Stone Mountain memorial and to the airplane field at College Park—both of which subscriptions were abundantly justified and to neither of which objection should have been raised. Both were strongly urged by The Constitution.

Neither Grant park, Piedmont park nor Mosely park were in the city limits when taken by the city for park purposes.

There is a way, however, to remove any possible doubt of the legality of the procedure to materialize the splendid suggestion to make a public park of the historic battlefield of Peachtree creek, at the same time relieving the city of the liability which it must unquestionably assume if it permits the present sewage disposal nuisance to remain.

In a statement on the subject City Attorney Mayson says: "I think the sewer bonds would cover the cost of removing the septic tanks in the Peachtree section. This being so, I see no reason why the cause of complaint could not be easily and legally removed. In other words, there is no connection, as I see it, between the proposed park and the septic tanks."

In other words, the city has full authority now to proceed in the matter of abating this abominable nuisance and at the same time keeping in view the conversion of the city property into a public park as soon as it can be taken into the city limits, which should be by next year.

This extension is inevitable. When the city limits were last extended, just prior to the 1910 census, it was then proposed to carry the line out as far as Peachtree creek. This was modified with the understanding that before the next census those opposing the extension would agree that they would not object to the extension prior to the next census.

The limits of the city of Atlanta will be extended between now and the time of the taking of the next census. It is already time for council to be giving the matter consideration, for intelligent and widely planned extension cannot be done on the impulse of the moment. It should come after careful study, enabling council to take deliberate action and to extend the city's corporate limits as to bring within them all suburban communities and inhabitants which are identified with the business of the city, and the comforts and necessities of whose homes are very largely dependent upon the facilities of the city.

So, after all, this talk about the city's disposal plant property not being within the city's limits is a case of "much ado about nothing," and one that can be, should be, and will be, promptly removed.

THE ALABAMA PRIMARY.

Hugo L. Black comes out of the Alabama senatorial primary with a substantial lead, though not a majority, over his four competitors, each of whom had been more conspicuous in political life than Mr. Black. The latter is one of the outstanding men of the bar of his home city of Birmingham and throughout the state.

This no doubt means that on the second choice count he will be the nominee.

He has always been a member of the Underwood faction. He represents in public life what Senator Underwood represents. He is a Wilson democrat, a conservative, a "dry" and yet not a fanatic. He did not have the support of the Anti-Saloon league, which entered heartily into the campaign in support of Musgrove, who, it will be recalled, ran very formidably against Underwood six years ago.

Another surprise, perhaps, was the weakness of John H. Bankhead, son of a former United States senator, and admittedly one of the strong men of the state. There is a widespread misunderstanding outside of Alabama as to the Bankhead candidacy. The contestant for the senatorial nomination is not the present congressman from the tenth district—W. B. Bankhead—as many suppose. He is an older brother, a lawyer and an able Alabamian. He, too, belongs to the Underwood school of political thought.

The lead of Bibb Graves for governor is not significant. It will require second choice votes to decide this contest, as there were three other candidates. Graves' small lead compared with almost equal strength divided among the other candidates is, however, significant in showing the overwhelming majority of voters as opposing his capitalization of religious prejudices. He made Governor A. J. Smith, of New York, the football of his campaign, without rhyme or reason except to arouse and solidify if possible the anti-Catholic vote. It is not at all improbable that his lead will dwindle in the second-choice count. Such an issue, entirely irrelevant, had no place in the campaign.

The Alabama primary law obviates the necessity of a run-over primary, due to the failure of any candidate to receive a majority of the popular vote cast, by requiring each voter to register a first and second choice. In the first count only the first-choice ballots are tabulated. In the event of no popular vote majority nomination then the two high candidates only are retained, and to their first-choice totals are added their complete second-choice totals. That one of the two final candidates receiving the majority of first plus second-choice votes—which means in the last count the greater total number when combined—is officially declared the nominee.

The law applies to nominations for United States senator and for all the statehouse offices.

BANKERS "SHOCKED."

The executive committee of the Georgia Bankers' association, in session in Atlanta, adopted resolutions expressing a "shock" at the practices disclosed by the recent failure of 83 chain banks in the state, and vigorously condemned "the unsound banking methods employed in the operation of this chain of institutions."

The entire resolution, calling upon the governor to order the attorney general to make a thorough probe of "the amazing and unbelievable conditions" which "ought to have been impossible under the laws of our state," is published elsewhere.

The action of this group of association leaders is precisely and definitely in line with the views of The Constitution as expressed on numerous occasions since the collapse that under no consideration could have occurred had our banking laws been strong, and our banking department fully alive to the "amazing and unbelievable conditions."

Even with weak laws—admitted, with full measure of shame upon the legislature for its failure to properly safeguard depositors—why were these "amazing and unbelievable conditions" not known?

The "practices" were "unsound," according to the proclaimed testimony of the executive heads of the State Bankers' association.

Being "unsound"—which condition no one could know so well as the officials of the state banking department—then there appeared all the more reason, in the interest of public welfare, that the banks enmeshed into such hazardous dealings, whether by consent or by the stupidity of dangerous contracts, should have been brought sharply to account, their resources weighed in the scale of values, and their collateral run to their final uses to determine whether or not they remained of real or fictitious value.

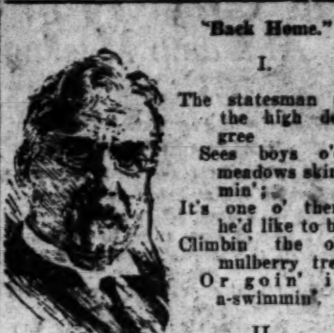

It is "unthinkable," as the bankers' committee now proclaims, that any fiscal agent for banks of deposit should be without the jurisdiction of the state banking laws and of the inspection system. But all the banks, operating under that system, were amenable to the state banking department. As such the inspection system naturally failed unless it traced the securities of such banks and found them of that validity and solidity required by law, or else called them in, and if not available called upon the directors for such protection for depositors as the law guarantees.

The executive committee of the Georgia Bankers' association, voiced The Constitution's views and contentions from A to Z. It is gratifying to find it so vigorously outspoken in the interest of reforms that must be made to prevent any recurrence of the "amazing conditions."

Back home again, he wonders why He longed for fame and glory And gave a song to gain a sign, And passed Life's simple pleasures by To make a stormy story.

"Twas ever thus," And so it goes: Even so the tale commences And ends: No time to reap a rose And feel the joy the call home brings, He's got to "fix his fences."

More of "Hick Towns." Most never miss a bit of glory that is coming to it, and says: "With no intention of becoming terribly heavy over the muck, we want to add that a hick town is a place where 20 of the 20 residents were born and where 7 out of 10 of the immortals in New York's national hall of fame originated. A hick town that didn't have a name produced Lincoln. Hick towns gave us most of our great literary figures of the past and practically all of those now living. Hick towns produce our Edison. If we may, then we would like to suggest that a hick town is a place where a boy has an excellent opportunity to lay the foundations of future greatness."

"THE GIFT."

BY A. E.

This Irish poet, whose name is George William Russell, ranks, in the judgment of many, as the superior of Yeats. Certainly he is his peer. There are moments when I think of him as the greatest of all that group who have made Ireland so beautiful to us. This song bears the earmarks of an authentic piece of art. The flame in the last two lines rises high above the earth.

I thought, beloved, to have brought to you A gift of quietness and ease and peace.

Cooling your brow as with the mystic Dew Dropping from twilight trees.

Homeward I go not yet; the darkness grows; Not mine the voice to still with peace divine.

From the first fount the stream of quiet flows; Through other hearts than mine.

Yet of my sorrow I give to you my stars, And of my night here the sweetest gains.

And out of hell beyond its iron bars, My yearn of all its pains.

LIGHTS OF PARIS

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

In the old days of 5 francs to a hotel porter was a royal donation. You can still read about such gifts in the old novels, when they deal with great statesmen and men of the world. The same amount might be scornfully rejected now.

The doorman of one of the smart hotels, where the Prince of Wales and King Alfonso generally stop and where all the American bankers on visit to Paris hang out, would not exchange his job for 800,000 francs a year, nearly a million. The fellow, who so humbly bows visitors through the glass doors, owns a small fleet of motor cars. He has 11 chauffeurs in his employ.

He hires his cars out by the day, week or month. His office is a little table behind the door of the hotel. He owns two Cadillacs, which he uses for private purposes. I saw him once, off duty, in the evening. He occupied a box at the opera during a performance by Ida Rubinstein.

Tippling is the curse of Europe. You must add 10 per cent, at least, to all prices in restaurants, to hotel bills, excursion trips and guide service. Of course, in Montmartre they scowl at you if you let it go with 10 per cent.

When a man delivers a parcel at your hotel, a tip. When you ask a street urchin for an address nearby, he stretches out his hand. If you are through seeing a monument, something; extra for the explainer. The taxis are the worst. The fare starts running at one franc, after 11 o'clock at night it's five and a half and after midnight double fare. Before 12 o'clock a 15 per cent tip, after 12 o'clock a 20 per cent tip is expected. No wonder that there are more quarrels and rows over taxi fare than anywhere else.

Regulations about dress clothes at the opera have been suspended for the summer tourist season. That's one of the reasons the smart French society folk stay away. As a matter of fact, they're away from Paris all summer.

Summer opera crowds and the audiences at the Opera Comique are 85 per cent foreigners. Americans predominate, with Germans holding second place and Italians and Spaniards tying for third.

Just now we have a violent moving picture of what can happen to a people when state and church go to war. It is astonishingly true that human beings do not control conscience; it is certainly true that men cannot impose a sectarian conscience upon a whole people and their civic institutions of peace and good order.

The Catholics in Mexico in their rights to worship as Catholics should have the fullest liberty and protection. But if they subordinate their religious rights to a political ambition to run the state, they should be resisted and wholly repulsed.

I do not know what President Calles is undertaking—whether to enforce the constitutional separation of church and state, or to break the religious dominance of the Catholic church and bolshevize his nation. From personal contacts with him years ago, unless he has since become converted, he has about as much personal religion as a country town billy goat. I have grave doubts that he is trying to safeguard religious liberty.

"If I Were King"

Mr. Saklatvala, the lone communist in the British house of commons, who was refused entry in the U. S., told recently what he would do if he were in charge of things. He would not be so stupid and old-fashioned as to assign as a punishment imprisonment by which one got a comfortable, lazy life. He would set up a committee of masters' class into a coal mine for six months, and when they came out he would compel them to sit in the market place and wash themselves in a public dish. He would make them and their wives and children live strictly on 47s per week and no more. That would soon put a stop to the class war, and there would be a better feeling between masters and men.

Ate the Mammoth. The Moscow Academy of Science has just appointed the members of an expedition which will proceed to the lower courses of the River Amur, in eastern Siberia, for the purpose of bringing back to Moscow the remains of a mammoth which have been found there, in a wonderful state of preservation in ice. The discovery of the mammoth was only made possible by the fact that the mammoth was huge and embodied in the river bed. This, the first complete mammoth discovered, is claimed to be more than 20,000 years old, and was found when a Russian prospector discovered that owing to the lack of proper means of transportation and the difficulty of taking the proper measure for its preservation, much of its flesh was used for feeding the dogs of the expedition.

By the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, made in 1848 between the United States and Mexico, this nation is bound to submit all issues between the two to arbitration by mutual consent. The United States has accepted this treaty in full force and this nation cannot afford to intervene in the internal affairs of Mexico without inviting from her government the indignation of a section of our people over the plight of co-religionists in that country.

The violation of the personal or property rights of American residents, or investors in Mexico, are matters to be adjusted by diplomacy or by arbitration. Unless Mexico should herself, or we on our part, should deal with the existing treaty as "a scrap of paper."

True policy is to keep our mouths and hands out of Mexican internal troubles. Let them settle them as they will. In all matters of doctrine and battle, we should remember that "Creeds, councils, dogmas, are the wreck of a moldering masonry of men, and only God demands our worship and only Christ our discipleship."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Thanks for Dull Nose. You won't remember, of course, but I was afflicted with a very noisy nose. I wrote to you and you suggested that I mop it night and morning with a solution of 10 grains of resorcin in an ounce of water. I did so, and I tell you that it remedied the trouble. By the way, it is a good thing a doctor doesn't always bury his mistakes. Suppose I had been a girl like mother wanted. (S. F.)

Answer. Do you mean to tell me seriously that mother wanted a girl, no kidding? No, no, there's some catch in it. I do see it. Mother was a good sport and when she learned it was not a girl she tried to be resigned. "Oh, very well, we'll have a boy," she said. But she showed a kindly spirit in that she pretended she wanted a daughter. Most of us prefer sons—the sons will bring plenty of daughters later on.

I can old cook book I found a remedy for catarrh. My husband has catarrh in his head. This remedy is the smoking of cuber berries in a pipe and inhaling the smoke. Do you think of it? I myself have been deaf for eight years. I can hear much better after I rawn and open the tubes that way. Could a nose and throat specialist open the tubes and make them stay open? (Mrs. R. E. D.)

Answer—Just think the cuber treatment is about as effective as a good many other recipes in old cook books. Even the new cook books seem to be an incentive to crime. And the recipes that come over the radio—well, in rare cases the information of the eustachian tubes gives prolonged improvement in hearing, but as a rule the specialist can accomplish in three or four directions than you can by yawning, humming with a high nasal tone, grizzling and making faces to stir up the region of the eustachian tubes. The grinning exercise means greatly exaggerating the unconscious grimace one makes when straining to hear, and it involves contraction or twisting of the neck, closing the eye on one side, opening the mouth slightly and hard retraction of the cheek and jaw. These maneuvers should be repeated many times a day, whenever you think of it and no children or neighbors are about. The humming and grizzling in almost any time, a little more with the lips closed, and you should feel a vibration in the lips. Every deaf person or one getting deaf should have a general physical examination as well as a special examination of the throat and ears. Sometimes trifling and readily removable causes are overlooked.

LOUISVILLE FORMS BOY SCOUT TROOP

Looking and Listening

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Preachers are among the folk that I like best. I mean most of them. Here and there you meet one who is obtuse and stupid and next to intolerable and you wonder how under heaven he ever got hitched to an "R."

But if the old earth has got any human salt left to it, the preacher is it and we would have "one hell of a world" if it were all preachers.

However, I despise religious intolerance and when I come across a preacher who is as full of bigotry as Mark Twain's bulldog was of buckshot, I pray the Lord my soul to keep lest it expose with words that it is not lawful to speak!

The Right to Be Religious. Who backed Jefferson and Madison in writing the first religious liberty statute in this hemisphere, I believe a man's religious character is between his God and himself. It is the secret of his spirit and in the freedom of his rights he is entitled to his religion without let or hindrance from any human power; subject only, in fact, to the police powers that guard the public peace as well as his religious liberty.

No man has either moral or legal right to demand that his religion shall be universally accepted, or shall be made the dominant rule of faith and worship in society or state. When he seeks to impose his religion upon any man, he is guilty of a crime against the public peace as well as his religious liberty.

That Row in Mexico. Just now we have a violent moving picture of what can happen to a people when state and church go to war. It is astonishingly true that human beings do not control conscience; it is certainly true that men cannot impose a sectarian conscience upon a whole people and their civic institutions of peace and good order.

I have grave doubts that he is trying to safeguard religious liberty.

Bound to Keep Hands Off. Whatever the case in Mexico may be, the United States is bound to keep its hands off. Our Protestant people and our Knights of Columbus are feeling very differently about the matter when they ask that the American government shall intervene in that embargo.

By the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, made in 1848 between the United States and Mexico, this nation is bound to submit all issues between the two to arbitration by mutual consent. The United States has accepted this treaty in full force and this nation cannot afford to intervene in the internal affairs of Mexico without inviting from her government the indignation of a section of our people over the plight of co-religionists in that country.

ROAMERS OF THE FOREST. As human beings we do not understand each other very well. And yet we are very much interested in the community of interest is established.

I often think of this in connection with our understanding of animals. Animals are human beings and we understand that they mean no harm to them. The dog and cat have long become companions of people.

The other day I stood in a great park and watched a little girl stand some ground hogs from their hands. The beautiful animals ran up and took their gifts in great glee. They had learned from some association that if they came into the park and fed them that these were friends of theirs.

How beautiful the deer is! I saw one leap through the woods the other day and the sight gave me a great thrill. I thought how very wrong for an intelligent man to kill one of these beautiful animals. I hope the time will come when there will be no killing of the animals that roam the forests of the country. They give something to the people's personality.

Today I watched a ground squirrel gather dry grass for his nest. He came within a few feet of me but seemed to have no fear. He was a part of the world and we were friends.

I spent a night in a camp deep in the woods. I had wide windows in the golden moon and stars and the cool air of the night. Morning opened its eyes early. I looked at my watch and saw that it was only 6 o'clock. I could hear birds and the chirping of crickets. It makes all the difference in the world to wake up in an atmosphere of song and the fragrance of the woods.

It seems too bad to take away the home of those who roam the forests. And it is just as bad to take away the roamers themselves from the forests. I am glad that they are protected by law to some extent anyway.

Striking Tribute To Governor M. B. Wellborn

BY WALTER B. JONES.

(In Montgomery Advertiser.)

One of the most constructive and statesman-like pieces of legislation in the history of the United States is the Federal Reserve act which went into effect early during the presidency of the lamented Woodrow Wilson. The writer recalls no single act of the national law-making body which has done so much for the general good of the nation as this useful law.

Under the law the United States is divided into what are called Federal Reserve districts, and there are twelve of them, apportioned with due regard to the convenience and customary course of business.

Alabama, together with Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and parts of Tennessee, constitute the Federal Reserve district, and the Federal Reserve bank for this district is situated in Atlanta. Its capital is $4,000,000 and its resources are more than $300,000,000. It has surplus of nearly nine million dollars.

Governor Wellborn an Alabamian. At the head of this great institution is a citizen of Alabama, who is recognized throughout the United States as one of the soundest bankers in the country and an able authority on all matters pertaining to finance and business.

Some 64 years ago he was christened Maximilian Bethune Wellborn. As the years passed his friends began to call him Max Wellborn, but since 1919, when he was elected governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, he has been simply known as Governor Wellborn.

Reared at Eufaula. Governor Wellborn was born January 22, 1862, and was reared at Eufaula, his father, whose name he bears, distinguished himself as a colonel in the Confederate army. Another ancestor of the governor's is John Wellborn, who came from Wales and settled in Jamestown, Virginia, in 1710. His mother was Emma Julia Dent, a member of an old and distinguished southern family.

Governor Wellborn was educated in the schools at Eufaula. He attended the high school there and also Patterson and Craven's academy. The father of a banker, his son should have a college education, but he was so strong young Wellborn could not be a bookkeeper in a grocery store at Eufaula in 1881. Afterward he became a bookkeeper in a national bank in Mississippi. Then he returned to Alabama, went to Anniston and there engaged in the real estate and insurance business.

While living in Anniston he organized the Anniston Building and Loan association, which he conducted until 1894. His business interests now began to expand, and he was prominent in the building of the organization and building up of the Anniston Bank and Loan company. The City National Bank of Anniston, the First National Bank of Anniston, the First National Bank of Piedmont, the First National Bank of Jacksonville, and he was president of all these institutions in 1914.

Serves County and State. For seven years Governor Wellborn was a member of the board of county commissioners of Calhoun county. He took a deep interest in the work of that office and was largely responsible for a more equitable assessment of taxes, a better road system, and a more efficient financial condition of the county.

After the Lacy defalcation the finances of the convict department were in a chaotic condition. A man of wide vision and sound judgment and marked ability was needed to take the helm. Governor Emmett O'Neal, an able and courageous statesman, was governor of Alabama then. He sought out a man of ability and the earnest solicitation of the chief executive, Mr. Wellborn accepted the important post of president of the department of corrections in 1913. He did a fine work in straightening out the tangled affairs of that department.

Takes Up Federal Reserve Bank Work. When the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta was organized in 1914, W. P. G. Harlan, then governor of the state, called on Governor Wellborn to take office and was largely responsible for a more equitable assessment of taxes, a better road system, and a more efficient financial condition of the county.

After the Lacy defalcation the finances of the convict department were in a chaotic condition. A man of wide vision and sound judgment and marked ability was needed to take the helm. Governor Emmett O' their outlet at 10 o'clock last Thursday night. Two of them, however, Roy James could have saved himself also, but he ran farther back to call the other four, and found himself out of it.

ENTOMBED MINERS FOUND PRAYING

The five, George Castiller, Harry Watson, U. B. Wilson and Randolph and James, ranging in age from 27 to 35, and all married save Wilson, spent their time in prayer and song. When they finally were rescued by the unrelenting toil of a force of 200 men working in relays, they were in fairly good condition, except that Castiller had wrenched his back in falling off a scaffolding when the cave-in occurred and was suffering severe pain and had a cold.

Their clothes, heavy with the mud of the mine pit, were cut from their backs at the mine's first aid station where they were taken amid cheers of workers and the mingled laughter and tears of friends and relatives, and then they were ready to go home and tell their stories.

Dick Wright and Freeman Cobb, the latter a brother of Randolph Cobb, were the first to reach the imprisoned men. They found the men in prayer and one of them, they were weak and to keep quiet, but they kept on praying until they were taken out.

The men walked unaided to the shaft with the exception of Castiller, and then they were hoisted to the surface in buckets. Watson's greeting to the crowd was, "Where's my horse? I want to ride him home."

After first aid the men were sent to their homes and family reunions were in progress. Their women folk had clustered around the mine opening for a week, their eyes red with tears and they laughed and cried when word came that the men were saved. Several of the women, overcome with emotion, began shouting, but were calmed by grim-faced mine workers. The men were given a little light food and sent home and put to bed.

Cobb, propped up on a pillow, told his story, but late it was decided to give all of them a complete rest and not allow them to see any more visitors for a while. They were weak and worn and after their rescue the strain began to tell, and Watson, who had so cheerfully shouted for his horse, could only smile weakly and acknowledge the greetings of his people at home.

Work of rescue was supervised by George Hearne, mine superintendent and part owner, and it was marked by harassing mishaps, for the drills by which it was sought to drive down a pipe to carry air and possibly water and liquid food, were constantly broken by hard rock, and the mine pump failed. A larger one was brought from Memphis, when it broke down two days ago extra parts were brought from Memphis by airplane.

Boyhood Heroism, Plus Scout Training of Richard Alexander Saves James Cleveland, Atlanta Lad, From Death in City Sewer

Upper left, James Cleveland, 8 years old, who was swept through a city sewer for a block and a half by the turgid floods of the Thursday cloudburst. Upper center, John Davis, 11, and Richard Alexander, 13, whose quick thinking and heroism saved their younger playmate. Alexander rescued Cleveland from a sewer opening, a block and a half from the spot where he fell in. Upper right, the opening of the sewer, the scene where young Alexander proved the basic manhood that is in him. At the time of the rescue the flood waters were up to the place marked in the picture by the white line. On Friday they were still four feet deep beneath the sewer's mouth. Below, at the left, the opening where young Cleveland fell in and the route followed by young Alexander in his block and half race against death, to the sewer opening which seemed so far away.

Comparatively few get the chance to perform a real act of heroism at the risk of their own life. And of the few that have the chance fewer still are quick-witted or courageous enough to seize the opportunity. But the chance that comes once in a lifetime to the few came to Richard Alexander, 13-year-old Boy Scout, Wednesday when his companion, James Cleveland, 8 years old, was swept down a storm water sewer on Candler street.

Richard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cleveland, of 48 Elmira street, saved the life of his chum James under peculiar circumstances. While they were wading in the small lake former on Candler street, near Euclid avenue, by Thursday's heavy rainfall, he heard his little friend cry for help.

Both Endangered. Realizing that James was being swept down the sewer which had an outlet just a block and a half from the street, Richard dashed down the street, jumped into the water and saw the form of his boy companion. As he grasped for James' hand the drowning boy's arms clung around his neck, endangering them both.

As the thought of both he and his chum drowning flashed through his mind, Richard used the training given him as a Scout, and struck Jimmy in the face, forcing him to break his hold. He then dragged him out of the sewer to dry land, where efforts of a physician and nearby residents brought about resuscitation.

Young Alexander's heroic act has drawn highest praise from leading business and professional men of Atlanta and it appeared certain Thursday that he will receive official recognition of his bravery. It was announced that the court of honor of the Boy Scouts will investigate the case with a view of awarding the Lewis H. Beck medal for heroism, and the case will be cited to the board of directors to award the Carnegie medal.

Richard was having a busy time of it Thursday explaining how it all happened. His first duty was to show just how his chum was swept into the channel and how far he had to run and how he struck him across the face and all the rest of the story.

Sharing with the boys in their thrilling rescue was John Davis, 11 years old, of 23 Iverson street. He, too, realizing the danger of his little friend, rushed to the rescue and aided in dragging his prostrate form from the sewer.

Jimmy was recuperating Thursday from his terrifying experience. Lying in bed with a high fever, he could remember but little of his rescue. "I was stepping up on the curb when he fell," he said. "I remember trying to stand up after I got in the water and then that is all I remember. The next thing I knew I was in a big tree."

But of all those interested in the fine case of heroism not one was happier than Mrs. R. H. Cleveland, mother of James. She slept but little Wednesday night, because of her happiness of her boy's rescue.

asked the guard to repeat the question. He had expected scant courtesy in Maryland state prison, having slain Robert Holtman, an aged keeper, with a piece of iron pipe.

The guard repeated the question. The "Candy Kid" straightened up, the smile still on his placid features as he answered in a voice that penetrated to every corner of the execution chamber.

"I wish you all goodbye, and that's the best I can say to anyone." The husk of death was in that stifling chamber as the hangman stepped back and raised one arm. This was the signal to throw the lever that sprang the trap.

But for a full minute the black-shrouded figure stood there on the balcony unflinching while the 150 witnesses held their breath.

Then a clicking noise as the trap opened and the "Candy Kid" dropped 7 1/2 feet to his doom.

The "Candy Kid" was dead. Robert Holtman, the guard whom Whittemore slew with a piece of iron pipe at the entrance to the prison hospital, only 50 feet from the execution chamber, had been avenged.

Prisoners Keep Up Din. Throughout the night the prisoners in the big institution kept up a din that verged on mutiny. They rapped on the sides of their cells with tin cups. They shouted and cursed, and they refused to be quieted by the frantic guards who could be seen from the outside running up and down on the dimly lighted tiers, threatening dire consequences to the offenders.

A great crowd gathered early around the penitentiary. Women with children in their arms stood in knots on street corners until moved on by the busy police.

DEPOSITORS PROTEST APPOINTMENT OF AGENT

A delegation of citizens of Danville, Ga., called at the state banking department Thursday to protest appointment of H. L. D. Hughes as liquidating agent of the Bank of Danville, which closed its doors recently with the collapse of the Bankers' Trust company.

T. R. Bennett, head of the banking department, was advised by spokesmen for the delegation that insurance as Mr. Hughes was president of the new defunct bank, it would be more satisfactory to have the banking department send a man from the office to handle the affairs of the institution.

A lengthy petition, signed by about 100 names of persons who said to have had $25,000 on deposit in the bank when its doors were closed, was presented to Mr. Bennett. No action had been taken Thursday night on the pending careful study of the situation.

In connection with the visit of the Danville delegation it was brought out that application had been made to the banking department for a charter for the Citizens Home bank, of Danville, which it is proposed to open with a capital stock of $15,000.

The application set out that Dr. G. E. Chapman, Sr., will be president, and H. L. D. Hughes, vice president.

PROMOTER HELD IN MURDER PLOT

Miami, Fla., August 12.—(AP)—Kempston Greene, a local civic organization promoter, was taken in custody this afternoon on charges made in a warrant signed by H. A. Hamp, president of the Hialeah chamber of commerce, that Greene had conspired with unnamed persons to bomb Hamp's home and kill him.

The warrant, according to officials of the county solicitor's office, was based upon a statement alleged to have been made by W. A. Wells, who is in the county jail awaiting trial on several charges of highway robbery and burglary.

Wells tonight was taken by sheriff's deputies to several places in Hialeah where the man said he had cached bombs and dynamite, but nothing was found by the party that tended to substantiate the statement. The confession is said to be in the hands of Wells's attorney.

Rialto Theater.
Principella Dean is the star of the Universal-Jewel production "Outside the Law," in which Lon Chaney is featured in a remarkable dual role, still claimed by him to be his greatest characterization, although the picture is among his first great successes having been made several years ago, and recently revived to meet the growing demand for a reshooting of the film. It is said that Miss Dean was at the height of her beauty, popularity and popularity at the time "Outside the Law," which is at the Rialto theater.

Loew's Grand.

The amazing picture, "The Road to Mandalay," with Lon Chaney in what many people term his greatest role, and an excellent program of unusually attractive vaudeville acts are attracting widespread interest at Loew's Grand theater this week. "The Road to Mandalay" is assuredly one of the greatest hits of the present season. The vaudeville bill is headed by the Miller Sisters, who are new musical comedians, and a rarely beautiful dancing show. Another strong act on the bill is that of Moore and Mitchell, a great-guessed number with a start-

Barnwell Placed In Council Race Without Consent

C. L. Barnwell, prominent Atlanta business man and popular citizen of the sixth ward, Thursday became an unwilling candidate for councilman from the sixth ward to fill the post now occupied by Harry York, when the councilman of the ward was elected.

The "Sporting Lover" now current at the Metropolitan theater, recounts the story of an adventure in which an army officer who gambles away his inheritance, including his racing stable. Later he wagers his love for an English noblewoman on the outcome of a horse race. Conway Tearle plays the role of Captain Terrence Conyngham and in this part he has registered the outstanding hit of his screen career. Barbara Bedford is seen opposite Tearle as Lady Gwendolyn Cavens.

Enrico Lale and his Metropolitan orchestra continue to evoke much applause for their splendid musical program.

West End Theater.

Charlie Murray, whose latest comedies are contributed by Colleen Moore, "Irene," now playing at the West End theater, holds the record for longevity in vaudeville.

After an early start in the circus business, Murray teamed up with Ollie Mack, the team being billed as Murray and Mack. It endured as one of the big-time standard acts for 20 years and five months.

Tudor Theater.

Now owing to the Tudor is Fred Thomson's newest picture, "The Two Faces of a Man." Edward W. Ross, the returning soldier who is forced to look on his gun and start out in search of the men who have ruined his father, wrecked his home and driven off his cattle. And from the time this happens until the end of the picture there is no let up in the action and thrills. Fred Thompson, aided by his horse, Silver King, entertaining and thrilling as never before.

DR. COLEMAN HEADS YOUNG HARRIS ALUMNI

Young Harris, Ga., August 12.—(Special).—The annual reunion of the alumni of Young Harris college convened here today and was presided over by Dr. R. T. Coleman in the absence of President Carmel Slaughter, of Orlando, Fla. A large number of former students from several states were present and were the guests of the college and townspeople who served a picnic dinner.

HeavenlyWho'sWho

Reward of Vision, Says Evangelist

The list of "Who's Who in America" is made up of men with vision enough to see into the future and faith enough to prepare for what they see and the list of "who's who in heaven" is made up of men who have vision and faith enough to see into the future and faith enough to prepare for what they see.

The evangelist sketched the careers of outstanding men of history, all of whom had prepared for the big chance that made them great and warned his hearers to prepare themselves for the great chance that comes with the end of mortal life, when those who are prepared pass into an eternity of happiness and those who are not pass into an eternity of punishment.

Mr. Rader's sermon was preceded by a personal experience talk by an Atlanta business man, illustrative of the sermon theme. He said he had been prepared for the big chance that made them great and warned his hearers to prepare themselves for the great chance that comes with the end of mortal life, when those who are prepared pass into an eternity of happiness and those who are not pass into an eternity of punishment.

Lakewood Aviation Field Work Rushed

Prospects were bright Thursday for opening of the new Lakewood aviation field in time for the final airplane demonstration and parachute jump to be made at Lakewood Amusement park Sunday.

Workers took advantage of the clear weather Thursday afternoon to begin final rolling of the broad expanse of turf along the crest of the hill skirting the park on the south-west side and with another 24 hours of clear weather will complete the work, it was said.

The planes have flown from Candler field for the two previous Sunday air shows in which Jimmy Calhoun, nee-devil stunt man, has successfully jumped in a parachute from a speeding airplane into the lake. He is to repeat the feat this Sunday with a 50-foot high dive from the top of a 100-foot tower.

Cotton Market Declines On Crop Weather News

closed at 16.31. Private cables attributed the earlier falling of Liverpool to heavy selling, together with local, Manchester and continental selling, but said there was a moderate cloth inquiry from India and some speculative buying of yarn.

Exports today were 4,441 bales, making 89,513 so far this season. Port receipts 9,980. U. S. port stocks 658,825.

PRICES REACTIONARY AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., August 12.—(AP)—The cotton market today was followed by moderate rallies on less favorable weather and crop reports, but after selling up from 16.12 to 16.27, December reacted to 16.13 and closed at that figure. The final tone of the market was about even, with prices were 16 to 22 points lower.

The market opened easy at a decline of 13 to 17 points under a renewal of recent selling movement, which appeared to be a buying reaction to easy Liverpool cables, combined with recently increased ideas of the crop. October sold off to 16.32 and January received 16.13 during the early morning, making new lows for the movement, but offerings were smaller after yesterday's heavy liquidation and after the initial selling had been absorbed prices rallied on covering and trade buying.

Reports of cloudy and shower weather in the eastern and central belts were regarded as reflecting a renewal of insects, and there were many private reports complaining of damage by boll worms, but no official report also of increased boll weevil activity. There may have been a little buying for a rally on these advices, but trading became comparatively quiet on the morning of 16.13 points from the lowest and after selling up to 16.37 for October and 16.27 for January the market eased off again in the late trading.

There was a renewal of spot house selling on the late decline which was attributed to hedging together with a buying reaction to a basket price of renewal of liquidation. Most of the active months made new lows for the day in the late trading, with October selling off to 16.21, while March

SHORT BALLOT URGED BY BYRD AT PRESS MEET

Pulaski, Va., August 12.—(AP)—Members of the Press association in convention at 28th annual convention here urged by Governor Harry F. Byrd today to give careful consideration to the frequently-agitated sentiment that the election of only the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general should be the basis of the commonwealth of any of their just power.

"To the contrary," he asserted, "the 'short ballot' would give voters additional power, in that they would be called upon to elect a competent business head of the state government who would be responsible to the electorate for the acts of his subordinates."

Floyd County May Have Another Hanging; Doomed Man Arrested

Rome, Ga., August 12.—(Special).—Floyd county may have another legal hanging despite the fact that hanging as a form of execution for murder, was abolished by the state legislature and the electric chair has been submitted.

Jim Micken, alias Jim McKakin, negro, tried and convicted of murder in Floyd county seven years ago and finally sentenced to hang October 1, 1919, who escaped from Floyd county jail on September 4, 1919, has been captured in Toledo, Ohio, officers say, and Sheriff R. E. Wilson has requested requisition papers from the governor that the man may be returned to Rome to pay the death penalty.

Micken was convicted of the murder of Jessie Hix, a negro girl, in 1918. He was tried in the Floyd county court, convicted and sentenced to hang by the late Judge James Wright. Micken was alleged to have shot the girl with a shotgun without provocation. They were employees on the Davis farm, a few miles from Rome.

It is understood the negro will not return without requisition papers.

REPRIEVES GIVEN TO DIE IN CHAIR

Boston, August 12.—(AP)—With death in the electric chair a few short hours away three men in the death row at the state prison here tonight received news that they still have three months to live. At the eleventh hour Governor Alvan T. Fuller, who previously had refused four times to stay the death sentence of John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, granted the men respite until November 18, that the courts might pronounce on appeals filed by their counsel.

They were convicted of the murder of James Parnes, aged night watchman of the Waltham car barn of the Middlesex and Boston Street railway, in a holdup. At the trial Devereaux admitted that he clubbed the watchman to death while his companions were robbing the office of the car barn.

AG E D WOMAN AIDS IN CAPTURE OF 3 ELEPHANTS

Chambok, B. C. August 12.—(AP)—An aged Indian woman, with offerings of apples, today captured three elephants of five which escaped from a circus here seven days ago and have been sought over the countryside by a band of Indian trackers and circus employees.

After being loaded on freight cars, however, one of the animals bolted and broke away. It was running at a fast trot, together with the two others of the five still at liberty.

Sighting the elephants, the Indian woman approached and fed them with apples. One of the elephants was hobbled while it was being fed. The Indian woman was then captured by the band of Indian trackers and circus employees.

RAILS LEAD NEW BULL DRIVE ON STOCK MARKET

New York, August 12.—(AP)—Revival of activity and strength in the baking shares and a firmer undertone in the oil group were the outstanding developments in today's irregular curb market. Trading was on a slightly larger scale, the day's sales running above 400,000 shares.

Oils stiffened moderately in response to the announcement of higher kerosene prices and an advance of 1 cent a gallon in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Net gains, as a rule, were small, however, due to the disposition of many traders to take profits on their rally because of the fear of crude oil production. Wilcox Oil and Gas showed independent weakness, dropping about 3 points.

Except for the reported improvements in the industry, there was nothing in the day's news to explain the fluctuation of the baking shares. Continental Baking "A" soared over 5 points to 83.12, the "B" moved over 2 points to 13 and the General Baking issues each advanced about 1 point. Motor and coal shares moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Erratic fluctuations took place in the radio group. DeForest broke through 4 points to 4.38 and then rallied to 5.34, and Freed-Eisenman advanced a point to 6.34, while Freshman advanced a point to 28.12. Music Master rallied from a low of 18.45 to 45 cents. Consolidated Laundries touched a new low level for the year at noon.

Public utilities held relatively steady, with a moderate advance in Electric Bond and Share as one of the few features.

GENERAL MOTORS STOCK WELLED

New York, August 12.—(AP)—Dividend of the General Motors corporation today cut their long-awaited "melon" by declaring a stock dividend of 50 per cent on the common stock, and in the meantime the regular quarterly cash dividend of $1.75 on the increased common stock, including that distributed as a stock dividend.

General Motors on the common are payable September 11 to stock of record August 21. The regular quarterly dividends also were declared on the more senior securities—6 and 7 per cent preferred stocks and 6 per cent debenture stock. The corporation has outstanding 5,800,000 shares of common stock, including 838,400 issued for the Fisher Body properties of the 10,000,000 authorized, so that the distribution of the stock dividend will mean the total amount outstanding to nearly 9,000,000 shares.

The annual dividend requirements on the common, if the present $7 million maintenance fund will be nearly $3,000,000. In the first six months of this year the corporation's earnings applied to common dividends were $93,285,674, or roughly 1.2 cents a share. The regular dividend requirements of the augmented stock issue.

The outlook at the present time is satisfactory, was the only comment on the stock market. There was a general feeling of confidence in the company. Alfred B. Sloan, Jr., of the corporation.

The unusual proportion of the General Motors stock, which is held by the Federal Reserve bank, was reflected in the first six months exceeded those of the United States Steel corporation, widely regarded as the premier industrial concern, of the country. It has been reflected in the marked appreciation of the quoted value of its common stock on the New York stock exchange.

WET

ATOMIZED

VAPORIZED

Wet gas is a mixture of atomized liquid gasoline globules and vapor. Wet gas floods certain cylinders at the expense of others. It chokes the power and gives a characteristic "drag" on quick acceleration.

Dry gas is a completely vaporized mixture of gasoline and air with no liquid globules. It is a perfect motor fuel. Dry gas equalizes cylinder distribution and gives maximum acceleration without flooding.

The public has accepted dry gas as an unmistakably superior motor fuel. Texaco is a dry gas. It is something that automotive engineers have long wished for and petroleum engineers for years been trying to produce. The Texas Company's success in the manufacture of the new and better Texaco, a gasoline that forms a dry gas under engine conditions, is a distinct achievement.

THE public has been quick to notice and appreciate the easier start and quicker pick-up with the new and better Texaco Gasoline.

Motorists everywhere tell us of cleaner spark plugs and the better lubrication resulting from the complete vaporization of this product. That is to say, there are no "heavy ends" to foul the engine and dilute or impair the lubricating oil.

From all over the country we get reports of the better acceleration and mileage, and the freedom from carbon-knock.

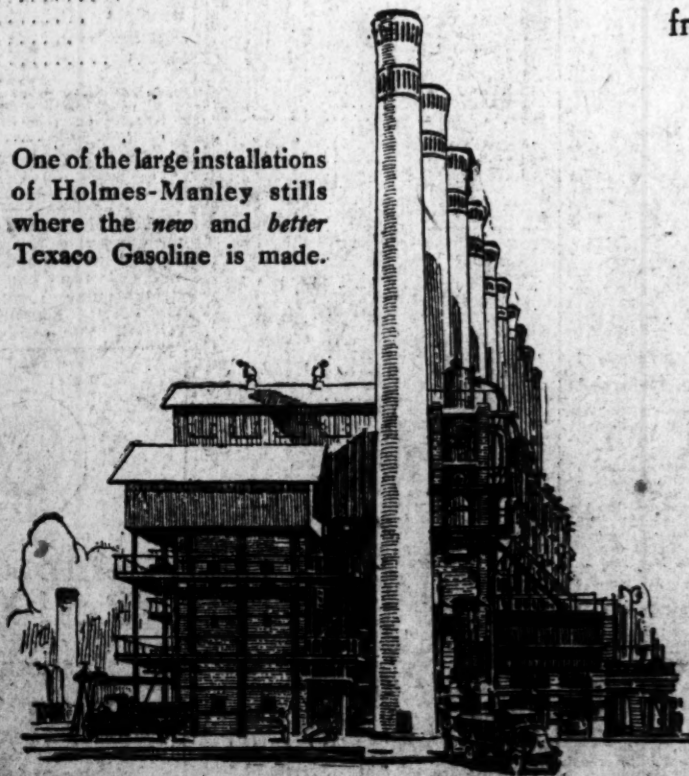

The new smoothness is a result of the even distribution obtained through the characteristic low distillation range and anti-knock quality of this fuel—produced by The Texas Company's Holmes-Manley Gasoline Process.

Its anti-knock quality is a decided accomplishment, obtained, as it is, without the addition of chemicals or poisons.

The new and better Texaco Gasoline is not only safe to use—but economical. Remember this—no poison—no knocking, better hill-work and more mileage—then go to the nearest Texaco pump to begin a new era of more pleasurable motoring.

Every Texaco pump now dispenses the new and better Texaco Gasoline.

Social Gaieties Obliterate All Fear of Friday, Thirteenth

Friday, the 13th, doesn't daunt Atlanta hostesses when there are charming visitors to inspire the muse of hospitality. Of course no one will be so unthinking as to gather the unfortunate number of 13 guests around a luncheon or tea table, for not even the most daring of us would care to tempt fate in such a manner.

Two lovely eastern visitors will be central figures at parties planned for today. Mrs. B. C. Forbes, of New York, will be Mrs. William Candler's honor guest when she entertains at luncheon at the Hotel Biltmore. Miss Hazel Harrington, of Newark, N. J., who has been the center of much social attention, will be complimented at a luncheon given by Miss Gladys Newborn and a picnic at which Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ross will be hosts.

The hospitable Atlanta Woman's club will be the scene of an elaborate party at the regular Friday afternoon tea when the directors, officers and principals of the Municipal Opera association will be the honored guests. The affair will be given in appreciation of the services rendered by the association in bringing to the city such a splendid group of artists.

Ayers, medical missionary from China, and Mrs. L. O. Freeman, prominent in W. M. U. organizations, will speak to a large representative audience of both men and women.

Professor Sutton Speaks At P-T-A Meeting

An interesting feature of the first luncheon meeting of the Parent-Teacher association which was held in the green room of the Henry Grady hotel, Wednesday noon, was a talk by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools, stressing the importance of a family physician.

"You all would be astounded," he said, "to know how few Atlanta families have a regular family physician. Of course, the fact that this is an age of specialists accounts for this. But no specialist can know of a child's condition unless he is familiar with its heredity. He must know of the condition of the father and mother to know the child. It is my purpose this year to try to impress on Atlanta mothers, through this organization, the importance of the family physician to the health of the child."

This association was organized for summer work in the pre-school aid circles of the city, and consists of representatives for the different circles of the city who made reports on the progress of the summer work.

Chairman Report.

In the reports made by the chairmen from the different schools it was seen that the percentage of defective children still averages high. Mr. Sutton told the association that the only way to lower this percentage is to begin proper treatment of the child at birth.

"It is a known fact that few children are born defective," he said; "weakness and sickness are contracted after the birth of the child during the first few years of its life."

"The little things are what count most if these are properly treated in infancy they can be corrected and in many cases entirely prevented."

"I want you ladies to get in touch with the city officials so that you will reach the mother of every child, send the mother a card of congratulation, and visit her if possible."

Mr. Sutton praised this organization and the summer work it is doing, and said that he believes that it will accomplish great things if the women are not "carried away" with the machinery of the organization and forget the real purpose of the association.

Mrs. T. C. Bazemore, who presided at the meeting, announced plans for programs of other meetings and appointed working committees.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Little Helen Kaugh and Master John Mount assisted in receiving the guests.

Mrs. Godbold, at the request of Dr. W. F. Melton, president of the Writers' club, gave a very interesting talk on the writing of a play, starting with the inception of the play-plot and carrying it through the various stages until it reached the producer's hands.

She related the incidents which gave her the idea for the plot of "The Mischance of Love," a play which has been most enthusiastically received throughout the entire country. "I am a believer in a good, strong plot," Mrs. Godbold said, "with music to give light and color to the production."

"The Flapper Grandmother," which Mrs. Godbold wrote in collaboration with Mrs. Wayne P. Sewell, has been an outstanding success wherever it has been played. At the close of her talk Mrs. Godbold gave an original reading entitled "The Square Dance," and sang an original song, "When I Hold You in My Arms," which will be sung at a local theater soon.

Wayne P. Sewell, of the Wayne P. Sewell Producing company, made an interesting short talk in which he paid tribute to Mrs. Godbold and her work, also relating the humorous side of his efforts in producing "The Mischance of Love," which he has found to be a favorite wherever he has produced it.

FATE OF BOATWRIGHT RESTS WITH JURY

Washington, Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—After four days of intense grilling of witnesses, during every minute of which Wilkes county courthouse has been packed almost to the point of suffocation, the fate of Robert Boatwright, 28, charged with the murder of Barney Lunceford on the night of August 29 last at a prom party at Rayle, is again in the hands of a Wilkes county jury.

Chief witnesses against young Boatwright were two sisters of the slain man, Allene and Lois Lunceford, who testified that each were engaged to Boatwright at the same time, without the knowledge of the other.

Miss Allene Lunceford, 20, was the only eye-witness to the tragedy. On the night of the shooting she made a statement that her brother, Barney Lunceford, was attempting to cut Boatwright with a knife.

At the first trial, a few weeks later, Miss Lunceford confessed that the tale about a knife was concocted in her own mind to shield the man to whom she was engaged, and had no foundation in fact.

"It was a lie to save Bob," she admitted again on the stand this week, stating that it was after the tragedy that she learned of Boatwright's engagement to her older sister, Lois, and that "she was then through with Robert Boatwright for good."

7 Major Probes Are Conducted By Trade Board

Washington, August 12.—Seven major investigations into basic industries and business activities are being carried on now by the federal trade commission by order of the senate. During the last month eleven complaints were disposed of, one dismissal was rescinded and 15 orders to cease and desist were issued against business concerns. Five applications for complaint were settled by stipulation, seven were dismissed and five applications were ordered to proceed.

CROWD WATCHES AS MAN WINS ROW WITH SNAKE

Harrodsburg, Ky., August 12.—(AP) A street battle between a man and a 5-foot snake which had been brought to town on the axle of an automobile from a remote section of Mercer county, occasioned considerable excitement here Wednesday afternoon.

Tom Chatham, hardware merchant, after making unsuccessful efforts to kill the reptile with a stick, boldly seized it by the tail and dashed its head against the sidewalk, swinging it with such force that it fell in an effort to crawl itself around his arm. The snake had put up a good fight until Mr. Chatham made the decisive move in the battle. A large crowd

"GAS" WAR FAILS Prohibition Offensive Must Be Strengthened.

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—After canvassing the first results of the government's "gas" attack on bootleggers, prohibition officials have decided that something more than gasoline must be added to alcohol to make it completely useless for beverage purposes.

A conference between Acting Secretary Winston of the treasury, Frank Dow, acting chief of the prohibition forces, and James M. Doran, the chief prohibition chemist, Doran reported that the bootleggers' chemists are getting wise to methods of eliminating the gasoline and that some new means of changing the taste of alcohol must be devised.

It also was shown that methods had been devised to eliminate other ingredients placed in alcohol by the direction of the government. Those include wood alcohol, pyridine bases, benzene and kerosene. What the prohibition officials will try next was not disclosed but it was said at the treasury that the new ingredient, although designed to give alcohol a repugnant taste, would be "harmless."

LABOR CONDITIONS DECLARED GOOD

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—The country as a whole is on a "fairly satisfactory employment basis" in the opinion of the labor department which made public today its July industrial survey. Seasonal slackening and the vacation period were held largely responsible for decreased employment and industrial activity.

The boot and shoe industry, particularly in New England, continued operations on part time schedules, with indications of increasing employment within 90 days, but the textile situation showed little improvement. Many iron and steel mills experienced the usual seasonal letdowns, while the larger establishments maintained a high level of production and employment.

One Death Caused By Severe Storm In New Jersey

New York, August 12.—An electrical storm, accompanied by torrential rains, swept down upon eastern New York and New Jersey late Thursday afternoon, assessed heavy damages, temporarily ruined electric transportation, caused at least one death and banished a heat wave.

All day the humidity after registered 90 at 8 o'clock in the seventies, and the moisture which hung over New York was a perfect conductor for the static currents which tore from cloud to cloud and into overhead wires with terrific detonations. The deluge which followed short circuited subway power lines and rendered signal systems almost useless. Traffic on the Seventh avenue subway, one of the principal north and south arteries on Manhattan, was tied up for the first 30 minutes of the peak of the rush hour.

Twenty false alarms were sounded because of short circuits in the downtown sections and racing fire apparatus added to the confusion in streets where traffic was already tied up. Patrick Reilly, a subway motor-man, was perhaps fatally burned by electrical sparks which burst from the control cabinet of his train when the first car was struck by lightning. The conductor took charge and ran the train into a station at Long Island City.

Many sections of Manhattan were flooded, the Pennsylvania tube, running from Sixth to Seventh avenues, carried a heavy stream of water which the sewers were inadequate to carry off. The Brooklyn bridge subway station, one of the busiest at the heavy traffic hour, was flooded.

About 50 persons were marooned by water at the Central Park zoo, and rescued by the police emergency squad.

At Hightstown, N. J., lightning struck and killed Stanley Carpenter, 35, as he crossed an open field. His two brothers, who accompanied him were shocked, but were not seriously injured.

Lightning struck the steeple of the Simpson Methodist church in Jersey City, and started a fire which destroyed the structure. While firemen worked to prevent the fire from spreading, traffic was tied up for half an hour.

An alarm was sounded from St. John's hospital in Long Island City when a bolt of lightning struck a high-tension electric trunk and set fire to the fuse box in the basement of the building.

The fire crippled the hospital lighting system but was placed under control.

Several heat casualties were reported during the torrid hours which preceded the deluge and the heat caused the death of one man in Brooklyn.

The purpose of this organization will be to properly place the eastern part of Georgia before the world in the proper light, to assist in developing this section from an industrial and agricultural standpoint and to generally promote the prosperity and happiness of this entire section, Mr. Harrison states.

Dr. Harry R. McKeen, widely known through his activities with Greater Georgia, Inc., will be the principal speaker although other outstanding men of this section have been invited to talk at the conference.

Invitations have been issued to every chamber of commerce, every club, every county commissioner and mayor of eastern Georgia to be present.

COOLIDGE TO CONFER WITH HOOVER TODAY

Paul Smith's, N. Y., August 12.—President Coolidge's engagement list clear of visitors, he spent today at the executive offices attending to government business and in the solitude of White Pine camp. The mercury stood at 87 degrees, as reports were received of temperatures around the century mark in Washington.

An overcast sky, with occasional light falls of rain, whipped by a chilly breeze, caused little discomfort to the president and he spent several hours at his desk disposing of matters which were described as routine in character.

A report on business conditions in the country is to be made to Mr. Coolidge tomorrow by Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce, who will also take up a number of department matters with the chief executive.

Secretary Kellogg of the department of state, is to arrive Sunday and with Mrs. Coolidge remain at the summer white house several days. He is to be followed by Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York.

John Coolidge, son of the president and Mrs. Coolidge, who has been attending the summer school of the University of Vermont, is expected to arrive here upon the completion of his course. He will remain until September.

21 FORD PLANES REACH LINCOLN

Lincoln, Neb., August 12.—(AP)—Twenty-one planes entered in the Edsel Ford reliability tour landed at a private air field near here today from Des Moines and will depart tomorrow morning for Wichita, Kansas.

Plane No. 13, A. Woodson, piloted by Walter Carr, upheld the superstitions belief about the numeral. It was forced down near Henderson, Iowa, with a broken crank shaft.

Walter Beech, in plane No. 2, Traveler, won the sixth leg of the journey, Des Moines to Lincoln, making the trip in 1 hour 22 minutes and 3 seconds. Buhl Vervill was second with 1 hour 24 minutes and 9 seconds.

A Curtiss pursuit plane, borrowed from the army, preceded the fliers, arriving Wednesday evening. It carried Captain Collins and Lieutenant Wisely. This is the fastest plane of the group, but is not entered in the tour.

Canton Troops Moving North Against Wu

Pekin, August 12.—(AP)—The northward movement of Cantonese government troops against forces of Marshal Wu Pei-Fu, overlord of central China, has disarranged plans for the crushing of the Kuomintang troops, the national armies of the Pekin government deposed last April by Wu Pei-Fu and Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of Manchuria.

The Kuomintang and the Cantonese government long have been supported from bolshevik forces of Russia against Wu Pei-Fu and Chang Tso-Lin.

Wu Pei-Fu has made little headway against the Kuomintang forces entrenched by Cantonese government troops. Wu has been compelled to order a strong concentration of his forces in Hunan province to oppose their northward march.

Two Cantonese armies, led by Commander-in-Chief Chang Kai-Shek, have been equipped by the expenditure of many millions, and expert observers believe their pressure northward through Hunan may force Wu Pei-Fu to go personally to the aid of his harassed troops.

Rumors of disintegration alliances of his allies, unstable always, are said to cause Wu Pei-Fu concern. Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, ostensibly sympathetic with the alliance between Wu and Chang Tso-Lin, appears to be taking no steps to aid Wu Pei-Fu in the south. Sun Chuan-Fang, controlling the provinces of Kiangsu, Chekiang, Kiangai, Anhui and Fukien, is one of the most powerful figures in China. Lukewarm in his adherence to the northern alliance, he is hostile to Chang Tso-Lin, governor of Shantung province.

NORTHWEST FOREST FIRES REPORTED UNDER CONTROL

Missoula, Mont., August 12.—(AP)—Favorable weather in most of the forest areas of the far northwest aided fire fighters materially today in checking the flames which have been eating through valuable timber for several weeks.

The most menacing fire was burning tonight in the Clearwater forest, where each gust of wind scatters the flames and starts innumerable spot fires.

Four of the largest fires on the Manikou reserve now are under control, but it will require an additional hundred miles of trench to hold all flames on that forest.

Alcohol Drinkers Facing NEW PROBLEM PLANNED FOR TIGERS Substitute for Gasoline

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—Something stronger than gasoline—just what has not been determined—is to be put in industrial alcohol in an effort to outwit the resourceful bootleggers.

Prohibition officials reached this decision today, and passed on to government chemists the problem of finding an effective denaturing process. Whatever is used, it was predicted, probably will smell bad and make the alcohol taste bad, but will be "harmless."

After a conference with Frank Dow, acting chief of the prohibition forces, and James M. Doran, chief chemist of the prohibition unit, Acting Secretary Winston, of the treasury, admitted that gasoline and other ingredients, put in industrial alcohol to render it unfit for beverage use, had not proved sufficient deterrents to crafty bootleggers, and that a new denaturing substance must be found.

The problem of working out a new and effective formula is one of the many connected with prohibition enforcement which will confront Assistant Secretary Andrews, chief of the prohibition forces, on his return to Washington tomorrow from his mission to London.

Andrews has been emphatic in declaring that the government has not sought to treat industrial alcohol so as to make it deadly if used as a base for bootleg liquor, and it is the intention of prohibition officials to guard against adoption of a denaturing formula that would prove so.

Doran informed Secretary Winston today that the recent order to place one-half gallon "approved gasoline" in each 100 gallons of industrial alcohol was proving more effective than any of the other denaturing substances, but that the bootlegger was gradually finding means to eliminate it.

Carnesville, Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—Carlton Hall, 37, was accidentally killed Wednesday afternoon when he fell from a truck and the rear wheel passed over his head, breaking his neck. Mr. Hall was an employee of the state highway department.

He was a brother of Mayor T. G. Hall, of Carnesville. Mrs. L. M. Nelms, of Atlanta, and Pearman Hall, of Greenwood, N. C., funeral services were held Thursday at Cross Roads church.

Mankind Faces Food Problem, Dr. Brand Warns

Williamstown, Mass., August 12.—(AP)—How to coax greater productivity from the soil is one of the major problems facing mankind of the future, Dr. C. J. Brand, executive secretary and treasurer of the National Fertilizer association, told the institute of politics today.

He said that civilizations have declined as the original fertility of their soils was exhausted, and warned that this country, still in the period of soil exploitation, was rapidly approaching the point where artificial fertilizers must be relied upon to keep production high enough to feed America's millions. A decadent civilization will result if robbing the soil of its fertility, without building up or conserving it, is continued indefinitely, he believed.

Dr. Brand saw in the farming conditions of this country an outstanding factor in the problem of food supply. The burden of producing without fair profit does not rest upon agriculture, he said, but is a political as well as economic problem for the whole nation to consider.

"Food production is not keeping pace with the growth of world population," he asserted, "largely because there is insufficient financial remuneration for doing so at the present time, particularly in the United States. World production of wheat, rye, corn, oats, barley, cotton, wool, hogs and potatoes was less in 1924 than in 1913, while the population of the world had increased 400 per cent in as many years.

The present food surplus in the United States, he said, shows there is no need for greater production at present, but within the next 15 or 20 years the increase in population will have consumed this surplus.

PORTO RICO LANDS WORTH MILLIONS NOW BELOW SEA

New York, August 12.—Lands worth millions are waiting in Porto Rico for a capitalist who will build dikes, erect windmills and reclaim swamp lands, according to H. A. Gleason, curator of the New York Botanical garden, who has just completed a survey in cooperation with the insular government.

Gleason reported the discovery of a 10,000 acre swamp below sea level. If the swamp could be drained and used for cane cultivation, it would add millions of dollars to the assets of the islands, he said.

Egyptian Consulate In New York City Will Be Abolished

Cairo, August 12.—The Egyptian consulate in New York city is among those which the government has decided to abolish as part of an economy program in the ministry of foreign affairs.

Eight legations and ten consulates will be closed as a result of the decision, which will permit a reduction in expenditures of approximately $750,000.

ELLSWORTH SHARES IN $3,913,964 ESTATE

New York, August 12.—(AP)—Lincoln Ellsworth, who flew over the north pole with Amundsen and Nobile, will share equally a life estate with his sister, Mrs. Clara Ellsworth Prentice, of Sea Bright, N. J., the bulk of the $3,913,964 estate left by his father, James W. Ellsworth. An appraisal of the estate was filed with the state tax commission today.

James W. Ellsworth died June 2, 1924, a resident of Hudson, Ohio. He retired from active business several years before his death.

The taxable estate in New York aggregates $3,913,964. The explorer and Mrs. Prentice, together with Albert A. Augustus, who received $100,000 under the provisions of the will, are the executors. The son and daughter are residuary legatees.

CHEMISTRY CHIEF OPPOSES SPRAY OF COTTON BY AIR

New York, August 12.—Spraying cotton plants from airplanes is wasteful, according to Dr. C. A. Browne, chief of the United States bureau of chemistry.

Addressing students at Columbia university, he said that the depredations of the cotton boll weevil resulted in an annual loss of $300,000,000, but that the weevil could not be attacked efficiently from the air.

Several billion dollars every year may be saved to farmers in America by the chemists, who are endeavoring to help them prevent the spoilage of farm and forest products, Dr. Browne said.

BOYS' CONFERENCE ENDS AT M'DONOUGH

McDonough, Ga., August 12.—(Special.)—The boys' conference of the Griffin district, Methodist Episcopal church (colored), had a profitable three days' session here. The sessions were held in Wesley Methodist church, but the large auditorium was able to hold only part of the unusually large crowds that attended. On Tuesday the mayor, George Alexander, delivered an address of welcome to the boys. Dr. Maxwell of the Methodist church, south, extended a welcome on behalf of the Christian churches. The former mayor also gave helpful advice.

The conference perhaps reached its highest mark on Wednesday when between 700 and 1,000 boys and girls under the direction of the district, the reports were so satisfying that a slogan of "Every negro boy in the district a producer" was adopted. A girls' club for the district was organized and after the strains of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" 500 negro boys began their homeward journey to different parts of the Griffin district inspired to make two blades of grass grow where one has been growing heretofore.

Klan To Parade Without Masks In U. S. Capital

Washington, August 12.—The Ku Klux Klan has obtained police permission for a parade here the afternoon of September 5 on condition that the marchers parade unmasked.

Permission was granted after Imperial Representative L. A. Mueller made formal application. He said that the klansmen would wear their regular regalia but would leave their faces uncovered. The parade will march down Pennsylvania avenue from the peace monument at the foot of the capitol to the treasury building. It will not pass the white house.

The parade will be held in connection with the national klonoconvocation of national officers and to consider questions of policy to cover the next two years. Originally the klonoconvocation was to have been held in Philadelphia but the hostile attitude of Mayor Kendrick caused the klans to shift to Washington. This year's demonstration is not expected to be as large as the one last year when it was estimated that 35,000 klansmen paraded in a counter-demonstration following an earlier meeting of the Catholic Holy Name society.

TUTTLE BREAKS UP Comet Meteors Seen Through Haze in Heavens.

Washington, August 12.—(AP)—Although a haze in the heavens reduced visibility, 24 meteors were observed in the annual shower from the constellation of Perseus between 11:30 p. m. last night and 3:45 a. m. today by Commander Asaph Hall, U. S. N., astronomer at the naval observatory here. The display was distinguished by

Secretary Mellon And Daughter Arrive in Geneva

Geneva, August 12.—(AP)—Still maintaining his policy of silence on international problems, Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, arrived here today from a week's visit in Rome, where he had several informal conversations with Premier Mussolini and Finance Minister Volpi.

The secretary was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. David Bruce, wife of the American vice consul at Rome. A private secretary also was in the party. Several Swiss detectives carried out a discreet surveillance as Secretary Mellon walked through the station and took the bus for the Hotel Brancaccio, overlooking Lake Geneva.

Mr. Mellon told a correspondent for The Associated Press that he had nothing to say about international problems. He added that too much importance had been given his visit to Europe. His stay at Geneva was really to pass the time until Saturday, when reservations at the Hotel Royal, at Evian, France, 30 miles up the lake, will be available.

The secretary will motor to Evian Saturday, where he expects to rest for a week or ten days. He said that he would decide later whether or not he will go to Paris.

CAPITOL CLERKS DISMISSED OWING TO INTENSE HEAT

Washington, August 12.—Practically all government departments closed at noon today because of excessive heat which made the offices unbearable. While the temperature was only 97, which is not unusual in summer here, the humidity was so high that great discomfort and many prostrations resulted. Nine government departments closed completely and in many other offices groups of clerks were dismissed in various rooms where the heat was greatest. The Misty Pathway

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

INSTALLMENT XVII. A DESTINED END.

Lucille slipped soft fingers into Richenda's hand, gazing up into her face appealingly.

"Lucille, I'm glad you realize," Richenda's voice was steady. "You see that was a mighty sum of money to me—and—and, well, don't you think it puts friendship in an uncomfortable position when—when—"

"Diddle, dear, I'll never mention such a thing to you again. Please, please shake."

Richenda shook the little hand. Yet, even as she did so, a queer premonition warned her that never must she trust this fair haired woman, or she still felt that behind this proffered affection there was something the did not understand—something treacherous.

She tried to put the feeling away, tried to get back some of her own frank friendliness, and the more she strove in this endeavor, the more that warning voice in her soul told her that little Lucille Davenport was playing a game with her, and had been playing a game with her from the very moment they met.

A queer dogged obstinacy made Richenda vow that she would find out what plot lay behind those close set blue eyes.

Well, she, Richenda Peterson, could play games too when it suited her purpose.

"Don't bother about it any more, Lucille," she said. "Of course you were overwrought. Let us forget it. We'll go and have tea and talk of—hats."

The following week Richenda, Lucille and Fairways left Nairobi on the somewhat deferred shooting expedition.

Mrs. Davenport was entirely her gay charming self again. She exhibited a gentle solicitude for Richenda's welfare and her attempts to wipe out the memory of her unpleasant outburst were rather pathetic.

"I've sent the cable," she whispered, "and they have wired back that it's quite all right. I can have as much as I want. O, Diddle, why was I such a fool that morning?"

The three were, apparently, back again on their old friendly footing, but the little warning premonition which told Richenda not to trust this was still in evidence, though, outwardly the girl was friendly as before. In her heart she knew that it was not for the sake of Lucille Davenport that she had agreed to join this trip.

"Plenty kongoni, plenty simba."

Something new had come to Richenda Peterson, something strange, which gave a little heightened color to her cheeks, something which at odd moments brought lifting snatches of song to her lips.

She was going to analyze that something. She was content to let the fate that had brought her to this unknown country lead her blindfold on. Somewhere in front there lay a destined end.

And—Brett loved her! His eyes, touch and smile were telling her so more frankly as the brief days passed by. Soon his voice would tell her, too. So there had been a definite meaning to her dream.

A verse she loved came across her mind:

"Two shall be born the whole wide world apart . . . and bend each wandering step to this one end—that, one day, out of darkness they shall meet, and read life's meaning in each other's eyes."

Life's meaning! She had read it in Brett Fairways' eyes. She wondered if her own spoke as plainly. She wondered if Lucille saw too.

And—glorious thought—nothing could come between them! He was hers—she his—by destiny.

Now they were going out to the wide silences, away from the dusty crudeness of the noisy mushroom town. He and she together. For a moment she forgot Lucille Davenport.

Recollection came back with a tumbling rush and a little frown. But, by and by, Lucille would go back to England. Then perhaps . . .

"Night in the drowsy wilderness 'neath a myriad smiling stars . . . Night . . . with one other near."

The little song tumbled softly from her lips, then broke suddenly to silence and her eyes grew dreamy.

She was glad she had never known love before. It came to her fresh, untouched. And Richenda went to meet it in wonderful frank purity—with the trusting innocence of a little child.

After some hours of traveling in the rumbling East African train, they dismounted at a tiny wayside station. The boys they had brought with them speedily stored the camp equipment into primitive bullock carts and the three Europeans took their seats in a rickety, mule-drawn vehicle, which complied to no particular standard of carriage. It appeared to depend much upon various bits of wire and rope for the keeping of its shabby parts together. Nevertheless, the Indian station master, from whom Fairways hired the thing, and who also supplied a driver who was supposed to be competent of guiding them to a good camping ground, demanded an exorbitant sum in return for the loan of these commodities.

The mules alternated between scampering along at a rattling pace which hid the bullock carts following far behind, in a tremendous cloud of choking dust, and suddenly refusing to proceed at any rate at all. The more many animal of the two had a disturbing habit of attempting to sit on its haunches in the middle of the track—which could not by any shade of imagination be called a road—its companion was an adept at a certain type of side step which may occasionally be seen practiced in the modern ballroom.

The two women found this progress a new and very trying experience. They were glad when, halfway up the slope of a grass-covered hillside, the vehicle was brought to a halt and the Kikuyu attendant, with an empty clay pipe stuck through a hole in the lobe of his ear, indicated that the journey had come to an end.

"Plenty water near," he informed them. "Plenty kongoni, plenty simba."

"And what, my friend, may kongoni and simba be?" asked Fairways.

His own boy came forward as interpreter. "He mean game, bwana—buck and—simba. I no get your Ingles name for simba, but he make big noise so."

A telling imitation of a fed lion was performed before them.

"That's frightfully exciting," cried Lucille. "Brett, you'll have your hands full taking care of two nice plump juicy females if there are many of those things around."

In an incredibly short space of time their little camp was ready. The four natives whom they had brought from Nairobi proved willing and experienced henchmen and the small canvas safari tents were quickly erected in a sheltered hollow halfway down the round bosomed wind-swept hillside. Behind their camp, mountains rose in broken chains and isolated clumps and stretched away to a mighty line on the horizon and below lay interminable miles of rolling plain broken here by a patch of withered scrub, there by a rioting clump of jungle, further on by the skirts of a great black forest.

Far away one or two small farms nestled on the slopes of gentle hill land. These lay among dark green patches of coffee plantation and dotted around them could be seen tiny moving specks which told of grazing cattle.

In a heat-bathed valley, near at hand, a cluster of native huts were grouped, low leaf-walled dwellings crowned by domed thatches of ragged grass. Naked brown babies tumbled around them, wild looking men with red clay molded in their hair, fashioned arrows over the heat of the tribal fire, while shaven-headed women, hung with heavy wire necklets, crouched over the cooking pots.

New Senator In Iowa Pledges Aid for Farmers

Cherokee, Iowa, August 12.—(AP)—To develop a park on the present site Iowa farm relief advocates today found reassurance in the first public speech of David W. Stewart since his appointment to succeed Senator Albert B. Cummins. The new senator declared he would carry on an aggressive fight in the coming session of congress for agricultural legislation satisfactory to the midwest.

Speaking before a home-coming crowd here Senator Stewart declared: "I deplore sectionalism and provincialism. The great strength of our nation always has been in its political and economic unity. However, the selfishness and sectionalism of the industrial and commercial east have made it necessary for this great middle west to develop a distinct consciousness as a means of protecting and maintaining the legislation necessary for the development of our farms, industry and commerce."

"I shall fight with all that I have to advance, protect and maintain the best interests of Iowa."

JEFFERSON H. LAND, PIONEER GEORGIAN, BURIED THURSDAY

Funeral services for Jefferson Howard Land, 84, pioneer north Georgian, who died Wednesday at his home near Lithia Springs, were held Thursday afternoon from New Canaan Baptist church, with interment in the nearby cemetery.

Mr. Land was well known all over the state. He manufactured the paper upon which the first issue of The Constitution were printed, more than 60 years ago. His first paper mill was burned by General Sherman on his march through Georgia.

Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Carrie Marshall, of Augusta, he is survived by his sons, Fred, Fraser and Howard Land, of Ansell, and T. J. Land, of Marietta, and one daughter, Mrs. R. T. Moon, of Hiram.

24 BODIES RESCUED FROM WRECK SCENE

Vienna, August 12.—(AP)—Budapest reports say that 24 bodies have been taken from the Weiss munition works, which was shaken by four terrific explosions and partially destroyed by fire at 7 o'clock Thursday night.

The report said that 300 injured persons, most of whom were women workers in the plant, had been taken out of the building. An official Budapest communique stated that it would be impossible to give the complete list of dead before Friday.

Most of those killed were soldiers stationed outside the plant.

CARSWELL ADVOCATES STRICT BANK LAWS

Ellaville, Ga., August 12.—(Special)—Declaring for more stringent banking laws and continuing the attack on John N. Holder's political campaign of "road projects, pats and promises," George H. Carswell, candidate for governor, spoke to voters in Crawford, Taylor and Schley counties today. He addressed voters at Roberta, in Crawford, Reynolds and Butler in Taylor and Ellaville in Schley.

At Roberta he was introduced by former State Senator W. W. Steed and in all three counties his speeches were listened to with much interest, especially the part dealing with road work and bank laws.

"I will come back here and apologize for deceiving you," said Mr. Carswell, "if you will find a lawyer in Georgia who has practiced law 12 months and who isn't in the employ of the highway department, who will tell you that John Holder has a mile more than 40.5 to allot in the 161 counties of Georgia. If you folks expect to get any of that mileage you're badly mistaken, because the folks in my county expect the same way all over Georgia, and has been for the last several months."

Disgusted With Tactics.

Citizens of Taylor county several weeks ago had a special train to take them to Columbus for a road "hearing" and after Mr. Carswell's address there were several about the courthouse who expressed disgust for the tactics Mr. Holder is charged with having used in the distribution of state aid roads.

When he got into the race, Mr. Carswell said some few people told him, "Why John Holder is holding four aces," but, said Mr. Carswell, "I tell you he has not. I'm no poker player but all Mr. Holder has in his campaign of deception is a pair of deuces, a promise and a project."

In Reynolds, Mr. Carswell was the guest of the Exchange club for lunch. Representatives were present to meet him from Butler and other places in the county, and many of them were surprised to find that here, in Taylor county, introduced Mr. Carswell and urged the gathering to support his campaign.

A Carswell club was also formed in Reynolds and Butler following the speaking, with leading citizens in each place pledging support to Mr. Carswell's candidacy.

Following the speaking in Reynolds, C. H. Noel, banker, planter and former president of the Georgia Peach Growers exchange, made a short talk supporting Mr. Carswell, and calling on Taylor county to support him. Mr. Carswell emphasized the fact that he did not want a political gathering to interfere with a religious gathering which was also in progress in Ellaville.

At the conclusion of his address, he claimed the three counties he had visited today as Carswell counties. Tomorrow he will speak in Buena Vista, Cass, Hamilton and Talbot.

WARREN EN ROUTE TO PENSACOLA VIA SEAPLANE

Apalachicola, Fla., August 12.—(AP)—E. F. Warner, assistant secretary of navy aeronautics, arrived here today, en route from Annapolis, Wash., to Pensacola. He was traveling in a new type of seaplane, a U-101, Curtiss, piloted by Lieutenant Commander B. G. Leighton. They left Charleston, S. C., this morning.

Mr. Warner said he had noted increased efficiency in aeronautics throughout the middle and southeastern sections of the country.

After two days at the Pensacola naval air station Secretary Warner and Commander Leighton will return to Washington by rail.

SOUTH GEORGIA WEARY OF HIGHWAY PROMISES

Savannah, Ga., August 12.—(AP)—Declaring that south Georgians as a whole are pleading for action and asking that they be given "something concrete" instead of "politics and promises" by the highway commission, Frank M. Oliver, president of the Oglethorpe Highway association, today addressed the Lions club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting, telling them of the situation that exists in the highway department and the want of the bridge across the Altamaha river at Doctortown.

"We, of southern Georgia," declared Mr. Oliver, "have been told that this bridge, which is the one thing needed to keep Savannah from being shut off entirely by motor from the great region west of the river has been placed on the waiting list. We do not want that bridge placed on a waiting list. We and the people that would be served by it need it and need it now. There has been too much delay already."

Mr. Oliver pointed out the fact that the people west of the Altamaha river are but a few miles from Savannah, which should be the logical trading center for southeast Georgia, but that the river is a barrier that forces the people on the other side of the river to go many miles out of the way in order to reach this city.

It is easier now, he stated, for the people of Jesus, Blackshear, Waycross and other towns to go to Jacksonville than it is for them to come to Savannah. This is the case, he said, although Jessup is many miles from Savannah and Jacksonville is many miles from Savannah and the other distances are about the same. The bridge would shorten highway travel between Savannah and Jacksonville of the state by 50 to 75 miles.

His remarks were a testimonial to the great part that automobiles have come to play in the economic life of both the city and the rural districts. The people of the latter now go by motor to take their produce and other farm products to market and to take pleasure trips. Good highways and adequate highways are a necessity and not a luxury.

He declared that Savannah is deprived of the trade that would logically come to this city by lack of the bridge, and that the people of that section are deprived of the splendid market facilities that Savannah affords and the pleasures of its resort facilities.
